A GREAT POLITICAL RALLY.

SENATOR CONKLING IN NEW-YORK.

THE REPUBLICAN MASS-MEETING AT COOPER INSTITUTE—SENATOR CONKLING DISCUSSES THE POLITICAL ISSUES—GOV. TILDEN'S CLAIM TO UNEARNED MERIT—TAMMANY'S OUTRAGE ON THE JUDICIARY.

The Republican Ratification Meeting last evening at the Cooper Institute was a great success, both in point of numbers and in regard to respectability. The great hall was crowded to excess, mercantile and professional gentlemen were there in large numbers, and the mechanic and working classes were also well represented. On the platform and in the body of the hall were several ladies; and before the meeting was organized, and at the intermissions, the Fifth Regiment band discoursed excellent music. The proceedings were very harmonious, and the speakers, especially Senator Conkling, were listened to with much attention. Among the prominent gentlemen on the platform were Hon. A. B. Cornell, Hon. Chester A. Arthur, Judge Peabody, Hon. Thos. Murphy, Police Commissioner Disbecker, Hon. Thomas C. Acton, Col. Frank E. Howe, Joel W. Mason, Hon. Salem H. Wales, Willard Bullard, Hon. Isaac H. Bailey, Judge John H. White, Elliot C. Cowdin, George H. Bliss, Hon. Abraham Lent, Hon. George H. Andrews, Hon. Jacob M. Patterson, Jr., and Charles S. Spencer. At 8 o'clock Col. Spencer, in a brief speech, called the meeting to order and nominated Hon. Salem H. Wales as Chairman, which was agreed to unanimously. At this point Senator Conkling entered the room and received a great ovation. Mr. Wales, on taking the chair, made a brief address, urging Republicans to conduct the canvass with energy, and to reject all candidates whose record was not good. Mr. Erhardt next read the list of Vice Presidents and Secretaries, after which Judge John H. White read the resolutions, which were received with great unanimity, especially that relating to the free public school system. The applause which followed the reading of this resolution, which stated that the system "must and shall be preserved," was again and again renewed. Senator Conkling, the speaker of the evening, on coming forward, was received with great applause. The proceedings are fully reported below.

THE PROCEEDINGS.

Hon. Charles S. Spencer, in calling the meeting to order, said: "In the discharge of my duty as Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, I call this meeting to order. I congratulate you upon the recent signal Republican triumphs in the States of Ohio, Iowa, and Nebraska. [Applause.] I congratulate you upon the bright and brightening prospects of the Republican Party of the State of New-York. I now nominate as President of this meeting one of your most valuable and respected citizens, Salem H. Wales." Mr. Wales was unanimously chosen.

THE CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS.

Mr Wales, who was received with loud cheers, said:

I return my sincere thanks for the honor conferred in calling me to preside over this large gathering of my fellow citizens. The sight of so many intelligent, thoughtful men, met to-night to take counsel together, is both inspiring and assuring that the old spirit of patriotism which called the Republican Party to take care of an imperiled nation in the darkest hours of the Republic, is not dead. May we not accept this demonstration as an earnest that the canvass upon which we now enter will be conducted with an energy that knows no such word as fail? [Applause.] We are here to ratify the nominations of the Republican Party for important State and City offices, and what higher evidence can be presented of the purposes of this party to secure able and honest men to fill those varied public trusts than to find the honored names of Seward, Merritt, Spinner, Danforth, and Phelps among its foremost standard-bearers? We are not here to apologize for or gloss over whatever faults or errors may have been committed by Republican administrations, now covering a period of nearly sixteen years. We can, however, point with patriotic pride to the redemption of the country from the hands of those who sought wickedly to destroy it; and we can thank high heaven that it is forever free from the foul blot of slavery, which was gradually eating out the moral life of the nation. [Applause.] We point to a gradual, though sure reduction of the burden of national debt and oppressive taxation: and now that signs of returning prosperity are visible on every hand, it becomes us to study well, not only the causes which have led to this temporary depression of our industries, but at the same time to address ourselves, with hope and courage, to such measures of sound and honest finance as shall prevent and render impossible their recurrence. We are cheered to-night by news from the prairies, that rag babies are only fit for children's playthings, and for the amusement of whimsical old gentlemen like William Allen. The sober, honest-thinking men of Ohio, Iowa, and Nebraska—men who stood up bravely for the old flag when it was assailed—were not to be fooled by what Schurz characterizes as the "brilliant nonsense" of inflationists and hungry demagogues. [Applause.]

We are not here to vilify those who are honestly opposed to us in this campaign. We can accord to the Governor of the State our warm approval of every and all measures that tend to arrest and punish all the rogues who plunder the people of their hard-earned substance, whether it be in canal contracts or tricks, jobs, and frauds less transparent. I believe to-night that, could Gov. Tilden open his mind to us freely and without political restraint, he would unhesitatingly say that his chief reliance last Winter, in starting his crusade against canal thieves, was found in the hearty co-operation of a Republican Senate. [Applause.] We must endeavor to secure a Canal Board and a Legislature that will work and legislate, without fear or favor, to drive out every remaining vestige of corruption and fraud. To this end I trust that all doubtful candidates of either party will be defeated at the polls, and that none other than "good men and true" will receive the support of the people. [Applause.] We were defeated last Fall by a very significant expression of the public voice. "We were cast down, but not destroyed;" and though we cannot forget the great struggle that brought our party into being, and vitalized its powers and energies at a time when hesitation was danger and delay death, and while we will cherish and bless forever the acts and memories of those who fought and fell that the nation might live, still we cannot make these things the sole issues upon which a great party can exist and flourish in the future. The great cry comes up to us from all quarters of the land, Reform! Reform! Reform! Reform in the nation, reform in the State, reform in the City, reform everywhere. This must be the shibboleth of the campaign, and whosoever stands in the way of real reform should go under, to be heard of no more in our political life. [Applause.]

The watchfires of our glorious old party are again lighting up. The key-note has already been sounded at Albany by our distinguished Senator, and if we are true to the lessons that now summon us to duty, if we do our duty with the courage of energetic men, I feel no hesitation or doubt that sure triumph awaits our efforts. [Cheers.]

THE RESOLUTIONS.

Judge White then submitted the following resolutions:

The Republican electors of the City of New-York, in mass-meeting assembled, hereby approve, indorse, and reaffirm the platform of principles adopted by the Republican Convention, held at Saratoga on the 8th day of September, 1875, and in the vital truths therein contained we recognize the only true basis for a safe, prosperous, and economical State Government.

We recognize in our candidates for State officers, Seward, Spinner, Merritt, Danforth, Cornell, Tingley, and Ives, men of integrity, ability, and without taint or blemish, and each especially fitted to discharge the important trusts soon, by the verdict of the people, to be committed to them; and we hereby pledge ourselves to give them, one and all, a cordial and earnest support, and to exert ourselves, in every just and honorable way, to secure their triumphant election.

We tender our thanks to the Republican County Convention for the excellent ticket put in nomination for judiciary and County officers; a ticket non-partisan in its character, and composed of gentlemen eminently qualified for the discharge of the duties of the offices for which they have been selected, and we pledge to them, each and all, a hearty and united support.

The Democratic Party in the State, in the City, and wherever it has sway, has shown itself unworthy of the confidence of the people, and when, by reason of apathy or accident, it has gained a temporary success, the people have invariably limited its power and duration to a single term.

In this State, under the hypocritical cry of canal reform, it has succeeded in reducing the income derived from the canals at the rate of thirty per cent. per annum, while the expenses incurred in their management have been increased in the same ratio.

In this City, although the "New Ring" does not as yet hold vigils in Ludlow street, or recreate in foreign climes, it has proved recreant to every trust confided to it.

The debt of the City and its taxes have enormously increased; expensive sinecure offices have been created; the administration of public justice has been assailed; a bold and wicked attempt has been made to control the elective franchise, and its record is one of peculation and dishonor, and the people cannot have a wise and economical Government until it is hurled from power and consigned to an oblivion of infamy and dishonor.

The free public school system of the State of New-York, which strengthens and illuminates our republican form of government, "must and shall be preserved," unawed and untrammeled by conditions, sect, creed, race, or nationality.

All hail, Ohio, Iowa, and Nebraska! In those jeweled States inflation, repudiation, and spoliation "made themselves air, into which they vanished." New-York, thanking and heeding her brilliant sisters, will, in November next, "go forth and do likewise."

SENATOR CONKLING'S SPEECH.

Senator Conkling was then introduced, and was received with loud cheers. He said:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: Before proceeding further I beg you to receive my most grateful acknowledgments for the kindness with which you have been pleased to greet me.

Montesquieu declared that he wrote to make others think, not to show how much he thought himself. In the spirit of the great Frenchman, I appear before you to-night. My purpose will be gained if I can induce you to inquire into the matters at issue in the pending political trial in which you are jurors. I shall not attempt to exploit novel theories about other things. I shall not ask you to hear my views about the modus operandi of working out a resumption of specie payments in 1879 under existing or future legislation, nor about yet undiscovered schemes for future public achievements in war, diplomacy, or policy. Newspapers sometimes tell us that such things, and only such, are statesmanship, but plain mortals usually do best by attending to the duty of the hour. A military critic, speaking of the charge of the Light Brigade, said, "It is magnificent, but it is not war." So I venture to believe that flights after soaring topics not now to be voted on, even could they be magnificent, would be little to the purpose.

THE QUESTION BEFORE THE PEOPLE.

There is but one inquiry before us now. It is, shall the men and the agencies proposed by the one party or the other be adopted by the people? This inquiry involves several questions and many facts. I shall ask your attention, briefly I trust, to only a few topics. As the text for one head of discourse, I take up a production, perhaps it may be called a circular, with which the managers on the other side are covering the State as with a snow-storm. This document is fearfully and wonderfully made. In mechanical construction it is, you see, like an accordeon. It pulls out and gathers up; it has a sort of corrugated automatic adjustment, by which it stretches and contracts. Indeed, its contents do the same thing; they stretch, not only themselves, but facts, well-known facts, and they contract into very narrow measure of truth when they are sharply looked at. This tract, being drab, and a work of fiction, would seem to belong in some sort to the yellow-covered literature of the times. It is being sent broadcast, as lithograph letters which passed off as autograph letters purporting to come from one of the candidates for Governor, were sent last year to the people, including bell-boys and chamber-maids in hotels, soliciting votes. It is made up largely of speeches of Governor Tilden, addressed to Boards of Trade and agricultural fairs, and delivered at other non-partisan occasions of civility and hospitality. Other matter also is introduced; the aim of it all being to convince the electors that the Governor and his party have reduced the State debt, and reduced the taxes largely, and that, therefore, everybody on the ticket of the Democratic Party ought to be elected. The gist of these recitals is found in three passages. Speaking at a complimentary reception given him by the Board of Trade in Buffalo, the Governor, after enumerating what he had thought, and said, and suggested, made this statement: "Whereas we reduced the taxes last year from 7¼ to 6 mills, next year we will put them down to 4½, or even 4 mills. Afterward they can be reduced still lower." At a fair at Utica the Governor repeated himself, except that he changed the reduction from last year to this year. He said: "We have reduced already your taxes from 7¼ to 6 mills in the present year." At the conclusion of this collection of gems, appear in large capitals these words: "Reforms accomplished under Gov. Tilden's Administration—Reduction of Taxes." Then follows: "Fact 1. A reduction of the State tax of about 17 per cent. The tax imposed in 1874 was 7¼ mills on a dollar of the assessed valuation. The tax imposed in 1875, and soon to be collected, is 6 mills." Taking these three extracts together, it will be seen that the express assertion is that the reduction of taxes referred to originated and was effected since Gov. Tilden came into office, and that he and his party are the authors and doers of it, and deserve credit for it.

POINTING OUT THE TRUTH.

Is it worth while for honest men seeking light to know how the truth is? If so, I can demonstrate that a more unfounded claim to unearned merit was never made for electioneering effect, or for any other purpose. For convenience I will take up together reduction of debt and of taxes. In 1867 the Democrats carried the State election, and came in power Jan. 1, 1868.

The County debt of the State was then (allowing for a small sum in the sinking fund)	$25,807,500 00
The Democracy went out of power Jan. 1, 1872. The County debt then (allowing for amount in the sinking fund) was	20,260,755 91
In four years the Democrats provided for payments of debt amounting to	5,546,744 09
Had they observed the constitutional requirement, the sinking fund would have been kept replenished, and there would have been in it about	5,000,000 00

But, as the canal frauds and other things remind us, the expenditures in these gala years of Democracy were extravagant, and to carry them on, not only were the taxes eaten up, but recourse was had to the sinking fund, and that was rifled of upward of $4,000,000, so that there remained of that fund but $383,244 09.

In 1871 the Republicans carried the election and came into power Jan. 1, 1872. They retained power till Jan. 1, 1875. The fiscal year, you are aware, is from July to July; and till July, 1875, the financial provision made for that year continued to operate. The distinction between fiscal and calendar years appears not to be known, however, by those who write for some of the City newspapers on the other side. Counting, then, down to July 1, 1875, the Republicans have had the financial management for the last three fiscal years. Now, let us see what has been done to reduce the debt and replenish the sinking funds:

In 1872 the debt was	$21,144,000 00
Securities in sinking fund	883,244 09
Balance unprovided for	$20,260,755 91
Bounty debt bonds since called in and canceled	6,051,500 00
Debt remaining afterward	$15,092,500 00
Meanwhile the sinking funds have been made good and the securities there amount (at par) to	8,885,444 09
Debt still remaining	$6,207,055 91
Stopping here we have a reduction of debt of	$14,053,700 00

But the history does not stop here. This bounty debt is not due till April 7, 1877. The balance, as we have seen, is $6,207,055 91.

To meet this, there is in the Treasury, not invested	$550,000
There is also proceeds of tax of two mills for 1875, in process of collection	4,700,000
There is also interest due on investments for sinking fund, which will amount, April 7, 1877, to	1,050,000
There is also premium on the $8,000,000 of State and United States stocks in sinking fund, which is now about eighteen per cent., but counting only fourteen per cent. premium the amount is	1,150,000
Total means to pay debt, already provided	$7,450,000

Let us state the result of the account, including these last items:

Debt not already paid or balanced by sinking fund	$6,207,055 91
Interest on loan to April 7, 1877	1,848,831 25
Total, April 7, 1877	$8,055,887 16
Means already provided as shown above to pay this balance	$7,450,000 00
Amount of debt now unprovided for	$605,887 16

It thus appears that Republican management found a debt of $20,260,755 91, and left it, after three fiscal years, $605,887 16.

DEMOCRATS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE DEFICIENCY.

Now as to taxes more especially. As I have said already, the exit of the Democracy at the end of 1871, revealed a vast deficiency in the sinking funds. There was, moreover, a deficiency in the Treasury of about six and a half millions. The whole deficiency was about eleven million dollars. Gov. Dix so stated it to the Legislature in his annual message of 1873. The first duty of the Republican State officers in January, 1872, and of the Legislature which came in with them, was to make good this enormous deficiency, and to this work they addressed themselves. To lay new taxes then, required high courage. The hard times of 1873 were already casting shadows before. War taxes had been oppressive, the people were naturally restive, and to vote fresh and additional levies was likely to overthrow any party. The duty was the more repulsive because others had done the wrong, and left to their successors the odium of making it good. It may not have been foreseen then that in two years afterward the same party which had plundered the Treasury would be invoking curses on those who replenished it, and claiming credit themselves because of the expiration and cessation of the extra taxes rendered necessary by their own profligacy and breach of trust. It cannot be denied, however—the Legislative proceedings show it—that Republicans shrank from adding to the burdens of taxation, and cast about for some other expedient. They did, however, at last, brave the danger of popular disfavor, and they laid a deficiency tax in addition to the regular tax; for this act the party suffered, as had been foreseen, in the ensuing elections. The necessity for extra taxation was created in the way I have shown you; the fruits of it are found in the figures already stated; and when, the need had been answered, the taxation ceased. This is the whole story. The expiration and cessation of taxes, when they had made good Democratic squandering and plunder, is the reduction now paraded by our adversaries. With creating the necessity for the extra taxes the Democratics had everything to do; with the abatement of taxes they had nothing at all to do. Gov. Tilden had absolutely nothing to do with it, any more than had the Sultan of Turkey. To show you this still more clearly, if possible, let me read an extract from a speech made by Gov. Dix in this hall on the 16th of Oct., 1874, a year and six days ago to-night. Mr. Tilden did not become Governor until more than two months after this speech was made.

GOV. TILDEN A PLAGIARIST.

It is amusing, at least, to compare it with the addresses Gov. Tilden has so recently delivered about the State. Mr. Webster said something once about somebody's having "stolen his thunder." See if you don't think it looks a little as if Gov. Dix last year copied from the speeches Gov. Tilden has just been making.

Before reading the words of Gov. Dix uttered last year, I remark that his statement did not take into account the premium on United States and State stocks held for the sinking fund; had it done so the exhibit would have been still more favorable in results. Gov. Dix said:

"And in the first place let me say to you briefly what we have done in the way of financial reform. Two years and a half ago when we came into power we found a deficiency of six millions and a half in the Treasury. We have made it up. We found the sinking funds, which were pledged by the Constitution to the payment of the State debt, had been purloined and applied to the current expenses of the Government. A year ago I stated to the Legislature in my annual message that there were eleven million dollars to be replaced. They have already been restored and the sinking funds are now complete. During the same period the aggregate indebtedness of the State has been reduced more than $8,000,000. If we are continued in power until the Spring of 1877, the bounty debt, amounting to $21,000,000, will be paid off without any increase of taxation. The general fund debt is virtually extinguished by a sinking fund which now equals the whole amount; and it will be paid off as soon as the bonds fall due—all in the course of the next four years. When the bounty and general fund debts are liquidated there will remain only the canal debt, amounting now to between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000. In 1877 it will probably be reduced below $8,000,000, and this will constitute the whole amount of the indebtedness of the State. One of the most important consequences of the reduction and liquidation of these debts will be to relieve the people of the State from the annual payment of $4,000,000 of taxes. I think no fair man will deny that these results are most creditable to the management of our finances under a Republican Administration."

Was anything ever more disingenuous, was ever electioneering quibble more unhandsome than the pretense that "last year," or "the present year," or any other year, Gov. Tilden and his party did, what in truth Gov. Dix recommended and his associates did, before Gov. Tilden was chosen, and while Gov. Tilden was upholding at the top of his bent the organization which inflicted the wrong he had no part in repairing? Figures and accounts are dry, and but little studied by the great body of the people, and therefore it is in regard to them that deception can be easiest and most safely practiced; and when to juggling with figures, is added an attempt to rob a predecessor of well-earned credit, the case hardly falls within praiseworthy reform. Yet this is only one of many sleight-of-hand performances relied upon to throw sand in the eyes of the electors.

GOV. DIX AND THE CANAL REFORM.

Pursuing a little further the same general subject, I notice a question asked in a newspaper. The editor asked why, at a meeting in another city some days ago, I couldn't state anything done by Gov. Dix and a Republican Legislature in the way of canal reform. It may be in order now to state something on that head. In the first place, it was somewhat reformatory to restore the wasted treasure of the people and to retrieve the credit and honor of the State. But much was done beside. A Republican Legislature, counseled by Gov. Dix, adopted amendments of the Constitution which have imbedded "canal reform" in the fundamental law, where it cannot be rooted out even by such Legislatures as we had in 1868, 1870, and 1871. These amendments are a breakwater against such enormities as came in an avalanche in 1868 and the following years—the rascalities in contracts, in extra compensation to contractors, and in other things which have lately received such publicity. Let me read a few lines:

"No extra compensation shall be made to any contractor; but if from any unforeseen cause the terms of any contract shall prove to be unjust and oppressive, the Canal Board may, upon the application of such contractor, cancel such contract."

Again:

"Hereafter the expenditures for collections, superintendence, ordinary and extraordinary repairs on the canals named in this section shall not exceed in any year the gross receipts for the previous year."

These provisions, and other safeguards for the canals, are now a part of the organic law, having been adopted by a Republican Legislature, and ratified by the people last year. Had they existed sooner, the harvest of plunder which has been reaped from the canals could not have been garnered. Other amendments, going still further, were attempted, and encountered violent and persistent opposition from the Democrats; they were fought and delayed until their adoption was impossible in 1874.

Let me remind you of two of them—I speak of them from recollection—they are not before me. They provided for a Superintendent of Canals and a Superintendent of Prisons, abolishing Canal Commissioners and other agencies through which harm had come. They gave the Governor power to appoint and remove for cause, and sought so to individualize power and responsibility as to insure accountability.

While the Governor was a Republican, Democrats would have it that these amendments conferred too much power on the Executive, and it was not till a Governor of their own came in, that they could see this objection in a different light.

On the first day of the last session, Mr. Seward, our candidate for Secretary of State, brought forward these amendments. The House was Democratic, and they were sent to a committee; but at length their mover was permitted to call them up, and they were adopted, and now await their second adoption next year. So much for constitutional measures for canal reform.

THE REPUBLICANS WORKING FOR THE PUBLIC GOOD.

A Republican Governor and Legislature did still other things. They carefully scrutinized and cut down appropriations, and supported the State officers in putting a stop to expenditure. They did not create a commission at pay of $80 per diem—$20 a day for each of four Commissioners—with clerks, stenographers, agents, engineers, a hired house, and other appliances. Very likely it would have been well to do so; do not understand me to deny that it would. Whether money will be saved by such a commission, however, remains to be seen. The little book of fables, already referred to, asserts that restitution has already been made of a sum greater than the cost of the commission. Allusion must be made to $12,000 paid to the State by one Bennett. No other sum has been paid that we hear of, and surely it cannot be seriously pretended that $12,000, or $24,000, or a much larger sum, will pay the expenses of the commission. One good at least will be done by the proceeding; it will call attention to matters which many men have labored for years to obtain audience for. But Gov. Dix did not suggest a commission; Gov. Tilden did suggest it, and Republicans in the Legislature at once responded and created it, and armed the Governor with plenary powers. One very important thing left undone by Gov. Dix and his associates was the blowing of their own trumpet; had this matter been attended to with the industry and ingenuity which we see now is possible, there is no estimating the applause which might have been won.

A SUBJECT OF PARTICULAR INTEREST.

Fearful of dwelling too long on the subject, I still feel that apology is not needed for discussing before the people of this great Metropolis the interests of the 1,200 miles of canals owned by our State. Surely few things in our public affairs are of more importance. The Erie Canal has brought untold wealth to this City, and has done more than we always remember to build up its opulence and its power. This artificial river bears a volume of traffic three fold greater than the River Rhine, running as it does through seven sovereignties in the heart of Europe. New-York has been, and should be still, the emporium and receptacle of the vast trade and commerce of which the Erie Canal is the best channel. But much of it is slipping away. The sea end of the canal is blocked by want of elevators and terminal facilities. Philadelphia and Baltimore, and Montreal, are draining off, through other channels, the sea-going products of the West. Grain and other bulky freights are handled more cheaply at these other ports than here. This is a subject which needs attention, and interwoven with it, of course, is the perservation of the canals themselves. The canal is the only sure reliance against railway combinations to raise freights. A water-way is cheaper than a railway for bulky commodities, and the Erie Canal, running parallel with the Erie and Central roads, is during seven months of the year, their competitor, and is the one power preventing such high rates of transportation as will drive to other routes a portion of the commerce due to us. This matter should be watched more closely than ever now, because of a law which last Winter made its way through the Legislature and received the signature of the Governor. Before this act came into being, the statutes expressly forbade any consolidation between the Erie and the Central Roads, and forbade the Directors of one to be Directors of the other. Here was a partition built between the two, to make them rivals. But the act of last Winter is an act of repeal, and now the same men may be the Directors of both roads. Freight combinations have free course now, and unless combinations were intended, it is not easy to see the purpose of this legislation. This gives us new reason to be wary of hostility to the canals. Whoever will study the composition of the Democratic State ticket, and their relationships to these railways, and to at least one connecting road, and also their position in regard to the canals, will not thereby have his fears put to sleep. The Republican Party has been ever the friend of the canals; but now we are told it should be voted down on the canal question. You must vote down the Republican Party in order to vote up the Democratic Party. Why should this be done? Why, because of the "canal frauds." How can this be? Gov. Tilden, it is said, has taken ground against frauds in canal contracts. Yes, but Gov. Tilden is not running in this canvass. The Democratic Party is running; the Democratic candidates are running, and their name is legion.

Why, because one man who is not before you has done a good act, should you vote for scores of men who are before you, and who did not do the act? Why should you vote for a whole party, having hundreds of thousands in its train, because one man, not on any ticket, has shown a willingness to strike at wrong?

IS THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY DESERVING OF CONFIDENCE?

Certainly, if the Democratic Party should be installed in power, it is because that party has earned your confidence in the matter at stake. Is that true? Has the Democratic Party recommended itself by its acts touching canal management and canal frauds? Look at the tables for years of canal expenditures, and they will show you every period of Democratic management by the increase and extravagance of cost. Look at the canal contracts most notorious for rascality and wrong. They all originated in Democratic Canal Boards. Look at the acts of the Legislature suffering these plunderings. Their dates will show you that they were passed when Hoffman was Governor and Tweed governed. 1868, 1869, 1870, 1871 are the infected years, and then the whole power over canal "lettings" was in the hands of Democrats, and the contracts referred to are every one the act and creature of Democratic authority. The records, which cannot be obliterated or covered up, prove this. A commission, non-partisan only in name, made up three to one of Democratic partisans—two of them Democratic candidates and the third managing the canvass as Chairman of the Election Committee—have been compelled to admit and state the fact. It could not and cannot be gainsaid; it is too palpable.

FACTS FOR TAX-PAYERS TO DIGEST.

Let me give you some instances. One contract was for building a reservoir at Otisco Lake, in Onondaga County. The contract was first for $19,000, and included felling the trees and rooting out the stumps on three or four acres of land—"grubbing and clearing," as it is called. The original contract was authorized in August, 1868, by a Democratic Canal Board. On the 7th of January, 1870, an additional contract was made by W. W. Wright, a Democratic Canal Commissioner, which embraced four hundred acres. This contract required "chopping and clearing" instead of "grubbing and clearing," and agreed the State should pay the price not only of felling the timber but of rooting out the stumps also. The contractor did not even fell the trees, but gave away the standing timber for the cutting, left the stumps standing, and was paid $24,753 25 for this. To complete the burlesque, it turns out that the contractor actually sold part of the timber for $10,000, and put that in his pocket also.

Take another instance. On the 21st of July, 1869, the Canal Board let a contract to H. D. Denison, long a member of the Democratic State Committee. You will find his name with that of Senator Jarvis Lord, Allen C. Beach, and other such, appended to the call for the recent Democratic State Convention. The contract was for straightening the Erie Canal near Fort Schuyler, and for building wall. The contract price was $74,183 40. The estimated cost was $84,645. The amount paid the contractor is a half million dollars. The testimony shows the whole thing illegal and bad from beginning to end. The proceedings in the Canal Board were in violation of plain statute law. No maps, surveys, or plans, such as the statute requires, were produced or made, and the contract was given to the highest of twelve bidders. The work was a cheat, the commission says, and was misstated by the engineer in charge $50,000 at a time. Even the bid was a fraud and a snare. Who voted this job? The record of the Canal Board preserves the names. Yeas—Beach, Lieutenant Governor; Allen, Controller; Bristol, Treasurer; Champlain, Attorney General; Richmond, State Engineer and Surveyor; Bascom and Fay, Canal Commissioners. Seven yeas. Nays, none. These officials were all Democrats. They appointed Mr. Crocker and Mr. Babcock the two engineers under whom the work was done. No Republican had any part in it. Can you believe that nobody but Democrats can be trusted to pursue, and, if possible, redress the wrong?

Willard Johnson, three times a member of the Legislature, was voted a contract on the same day, by the same officials. He was to have about $33,000. He has received $111,000, and his work is pronounced a fraud. The contract had written in it false and forged prices for hemlock lumber and lock-masonry. This was afterward detected by a Republican official, and exposed and corrected. Willard Johnson has never been sued, though the facts were notorious last Winter. After the whole affair was public a bill which had been passed paying this contractor $55,000, parcel of the $73,000 excess over his contract, went to Gov. Tilden. He did not veto it—he let it become a law, and the money is gone. This transaction has been constantly charged as the result of an agreement between the Governor and an influential member of his party, and though proof has been offered if denial were made, no denial has ever been made.

On the same day another contract was voted by the same unanimous seven, to the same Denison, for a long wall at Utica and for removing "benches." The work has been going on for two years, under a Democratic State Engineer and his staff, and it is pronounced a sham and a cheat. On the 17th of June, 1871, the Canal Board, every member of it being a Democrat, voted the same Denison another contract. This was for improving the Champlain Canal. The price to be paid was $9,290 50. The sum taken from the State is $143,316. The whole proceeding appears to have been gross to the last degree. The maps, surveys, and plans were not made, false quantities were exhibited at the letting, the law was violated from the beginning, and the work is in large part worthless.

About the same time Mr. George D. Lord, under an alias, received from the same Canal Board three contracts for slope wall, and although his bid was 75 cents per cubic yard, in all three contracts it was stated at $1 75. This fact was known to Democratic officials in 1871, but the work went on and the contract was unchanged till 1872, when a Republican State Engineer came in and detected and corrected it.

Take all this history, and find in it the reasons for indorsing and electing the Democratic Party on the issue of canal frauds, if you can.

IS GOV. TILDEN AS HONEST AS HE PRETENDS TO BE?

But Mr. Tilden has denounced these things. Yes, so has every honest man on both sides. So did all the Republicans in the Legislature, and when Democrats assailed the Governor, Republicans stood by him, and voted him extraordinary powers of various kinds. He asked power to remove State officials, it was given him, and given him by Republicans, and he has never used it. He asked authority to appoint an Inspector of Public Works forthwith—this power was given him, and the office created; and there it has stood, vacant for six months. Republicans, and their conventions and press, have all encouraged and supported the Governor in every movement for reform. This is as it should be, but why vote down the party unstained by the frauds, and conspicuous everywhere for its earnestness in chastising and eradicating them? The last report of the Commission, just out, makes more puzzling than ever the non-action of the Governor under the law empowering him to remove delinquent officials. Various works at Black Rock Harbor have cost, it seems, more than a million dollars, and most of it, the report says, has been wasted or plundered. A Canal Board committee of five gave Mr. George D. Lord $119,000, which the Commission insists was a wrong. One member of this committee was a Republican, no longer in office, and the other four were Democrats, and they are still in office. The State Engineer was and is one of the four, Jackson, the Canal Commissioner on the Black Rock Division, was and is another of the four; the facts have long been notorious, but no one has been suspended. A Republican Appraiser is badly compromised in this affair; he has been indicted, and I earnestly hope will get his deserts. When a Republican is caught swindling, he ought especially to be punished, because Republicans know that swindling is wrong. Mr. Fay, lately a Democratic Canal Commissioner, and now a Democratic Division Engineer, appears in both capacities to have been art and part of the conspiracy to rob the State in the Black Rock Works, but he too has gone unremoved, though for months his proceedings have been a secret to no one.

Unless I misconceive the common sense of this whole matter, a man must be stone blind who does not see that it will be a good thing to put some Republicans in the Canal Board now, and let them and the Democrats who will still be there, and the Governor, all watch each other. It is said the best of men bear watching. When the Governor makes up his mind which of his trusted friends to make Inspector of Public Works, he, too, will be another fasting Democrat to watch the Republicans. But do not let us have it all on one side, especially not on that side which has been so unlucky up to this time. In the language which used to be so dear to our friends on the other side, "Give us a change." No change can well be for the worse.

JOURNALISTIC "ARGUMENT" ANSWERED.

Just here I am reminded of an article in the New-York World of day before yesterday, in answer to which I would ask your attention to some facts. The article contains much coarse personal abuse; of course it is not referred to to notice that, but for a quite different reason. The most useful political discussion seems to me a joint discussion or a debate between opposing speakers. Next to this, perhaps, is to notice and reply to denials or answers made to arguments or assertions occurring in public addresses. In this way we get sharper—more definite issues. Referring to some remarks made by me at a public meeting in Albany, not published in the World, it says: "His unfairness is positively shameful, and sometimes when he desires to indulge in his propensity for misrepresentation with impunity he takes pains to prevent any complete report of his speeches." Those who know what a favorite I am with newspapers, and how much of my life I devote to conciliating them, and how sure they would be to report me just as I might wish, will appreciate and relish the profundity and probability of this sage assertion. The article proceeds.

"In this Albany address we have noted in a single perusal about a score of falsehoods of which we have only time to notice two as specimens. The first is a case of downright libel against the character of John Kelly and other reputable citizens. He says: 'We see that a new Tammany Ring has blossomed out in practices less flaring, but as certainly hurtful and dishonest as those which distinguished Tweed and his associates.' This is confounding all distinction of right and wrong, of good and ill. The second instance is a malicious libel on Gov. Tilden, thrown in to poison the praise bestowed upon him. Speaking of the culpability of the Canal Board of 1869, Mr. Conkling says, endeavoring to show the Governor's insincerity in reform: 'These are the men whom two years afterward Gov. Tilden assisted in renominating at Rochester.' The Senator cannot be so ignorant of current politics as not to be aware that the great struggle of Tilden and Kernan in the Rochester Convention was to get a new State ticket, as a proof that party management had changed hands, and to destroy the influence of Tweed and expel him from the Democratic Party."

Reversing the order of these two alleged slanders, I take up first the one touching Gov. Tilden. The World garbles my words by cutting a short sentence in two, suppressing one half, and publishing the other half as if it was the whole. The statement, as appears in other papers, was this:

"All these officials were Democrats. They are the same men whom two years afterward, at Rochester, Gov. Tilden assisted in renominating, and who he supported with all the appliances which ministered to that immaculate campaign. They are the same men for whom the whole Democracy voted after their doings were notorious—the same men for whom they counted as many votes in New-York City within about 3,000 as had been counted for Hoffman, when, as we know now, upward of 15,000 was falsely added to the count, and all this at an election when Republicans laid aside party and gave their votes to Mr. Seymour, Mr. Tilden, Tiemann, and other Democrats, because they believed them for reform."

The truth or error of this statement is worth examining, and particularly now that the World admits and vigorously insists that in September, 1871, Mr. Tilden did know that the then State officials were unworthy to be kept in place, and did know that they represented Tweed. That Mr. Tilden did then know these things was pretty clear before, but it is convenient to have it fully attested by one of the rival organs of Democracy in this City. Bearing in mind then that Mr. Tilden knew that the men in question belonged to the Tweed régime, let us recall the facts. Mr. Tilden was a member of the convention which renominated all these men; he remained a member of the convention to the end; he was himself nominated as member and Chairman of the committee to manage the canvass, and accepted the place; he did not repudiate or denounce the nominations, but accepted and concurred in them. The World lugs in Tweed who had not been mentioned in this connection, but it may be mentioned now that Tweed was present also, and in person directed and superintended the doings of the convention. All these facts are open and public, and will be found in the reports of the convention published at the time in the party press on both sides. They sufficiently warrant the remark that Mr. Tilden assisted on the occasion, but this is not the matter to which I invite chief attention.

THE CONFEDERATES OF TWEED.

What did Mr. Tilden do to reinstall these men in high places of trust, after the World says he knew their unworthiness, and disapproved their selection? Did he act the non-partisan or Reformer then? He was, you remember, supported by the Republicans that year for the Assembly, and was then a professed Reformer.

He acted throughout the canvass as Chairman of the Democratic Committee, down to and including the polling and the count of votes. Did he or did he not support and endeavor to refasten upon the people these unfaithful officials and known confederates of Tweed? If he did not, grievously has he been slandered. If he did, the World has done an ill service to Mr. Tilden by bringing the fact to notice. The official canvass of votes would decide this question, even if the fact had not been known of all men at the time. One year before, Gov. Hoffman had been re-elected. The Democracy was united then, and all the votes they could command were cast, and all they could count were counted. Mr. Tilden was Chairman of the committee that year also.

The Democratic vote counted in this City for Hoffman in 1870 was	86,668
In 1871 the vote counted for the Tweed State ticket was	83,226
Vote of 1870 less than 1871	3,442

The year 1871 was the "off year," no Governor or members of Congress running, and the vote in "off years" is always perceptibly lighter. In the face of these figures dare any man assert that Mr. Tilden and the whole body of Democratic partisans did not support the known Tweed ticket? So much for the alleged slander of Gov. Tilden.

KELLY'S CLAIMS TO RESPECTABILITY.

Now, as to the charge that the "reputable" Mr. Kelly has been slandered by the assertion "that a new Tammany Ring has blossomed out in practices less flaring, but as certainly hurtful and dishonest, as those which distinguished Tweed and his confrères." It will be observed that this remark does not name Mr. Kelly. How came the World to know that when you say "Tammany Ring" you mean "Mr. Kelly?" This shows the supernatural gifts with which editors are sometimes endowed. After this introduction of the name of Mr. Kelly by a great paper, it cannot be improper to consider him as representing the new Tammany Ring, and to inquire what that noted organization is now doing with the party it so absolutely rules—the party which now masquerades in the garb of reform. Mr. Kelly's past career as Sheriff and otherwise is known here, and no reference to it by me is needed. The things Mr. Kelly has done, and is yet attempting, in so far as they concern the public and enter into this canvass are fit matters for public discourse. He is the great power in the Democratic Party, and his action in that regard cannot be ignored.

He made the delegates, sixty-three in number, who went to Syracuse and nominated the State ticket now seeking your suffrages. In this list appear, among others, the names of Mark Lanigan, Thomas Shields, Edward J. Shandley, Timothy J. Campbell, Henry Waltman, Thomas O'Callahan, Hugh H. Moore, William H. Quincey, Patrick Lysaght, Henry Hughes, and William W. Cook. I forbear to state the particulars given me of the avocations and history of these men, but I mention their names in the hope that some of you will make them the subject of inquiry in order to see whether they incarnate and represent the reform and moral sentiment of this populous and Christian City. Should you find them out, please decide for yourselves whether the new birth of Democracy is better than the old.

Come a step nearer to the present moment. A judicial election is to happen in ten days, the like of which cannot occur again in fourteen years. For fourteen years the die is now to be cast as to the depositaries of much of the judicial power to be wielded in this community. For six years still other judicial officers are now to be chosen. A Judge of the Superior Court, a Judge of the Common Pleas, who often sits in the Supreme Court, a Recorder, and a Judge of the Court of General Sessions, are to be chosen for fourteen years; a Surrogate, two Judges of the Marine Court, and nine Civil Justices are to be elected for six years. It will be long before you will see again at any one election such an aggregate of places on the bench to be filled; and, from the richest to the poorest, there is not one soul on this island whose rights of life, liberty, and property may not be weighed in the balances these judges are to hold. Cold-blooded and hardened indeed, must be the gamester with the political dice-box, who does not feel some compunction in staking such a matter on the baser tossings of the game.

TAMMANY'S OUTRAGE ON THE JUDICIARY.

Mr. Kelly has made the selections for which the Tammany Democracy will vote; he has also cast out those for whom Tammany is not to vote. He has attempted to remove from the bench Mr. Hackett, the Recorder, a life-long Democrat, who has been a terror to criminals because boldly and with industry he has smitten them with the heavy hand of justice. Why was this done? Does any man doubt that if Mr. Kelly had felt that he could rely on Mr. Hackett for his own purposes he would have had him renominated, instead of braving public sentiment for the sake of securing some one else? Who has Mr. Kelly nominated for Recorder? I do not mean to speak of Mr. Smyth with disrespect—far from it. I have no warrant for doing so. But why was Mr. Smyth made to supersede Mr. Hackett? Has he had long judicial experience, so as to be fitter for the place? He has, I believe, never appeared in judicial station. What has he done that he should displace Mr. Hackett? He has been, I am told, the counsel of the Liquor-dealers' Association, and his partner is the counsel of Mr. Peter B. Sweeny. These things do not prove that Mr. Smyth may not become a good Recorder, but they shed light on the motive and object of his nomination. Without ill-will to Mr. Smyth, I hope you will elect Mr. Hackett. The Republican Party will support him, not because of his politics, but because of his fitness, and because the proceeding against him is unwholesome and ominous, and ought to be rebuked.

Who has Mr. Kelly selected for your newly-created Judge of General Sessions? Mr. James C. Spencer, who, as I am told, in 1870, subscribed $500 toward setting up a statue to Mr. Tweed in the midst of the City Mr. Tweed had robbed! Why was this done? Fortunately, here again, Republicans find opportunity to rise above party, and do a thing right for other reasons. Col. Gildersleeve is running—the hero of Wimbledon—and Mr. Kelly may find him a team too strong to be beaten, even by Tammany.

Who has Mr. Kelly decided to retain for Judge of Common Pleas? An officer not unknown, though somewhat overshadowed by the late County Clerk, who first grew famous on the flood of fraudulent naturalization which flowed out from him; and next from his connection, anti and post mortem, with the late Mr. Watson. If the Recorder was to be changed, might not Mr. Kelly, if only to avoid appearing invidious, have given you "a change" in the Common Pleas also?

The District Attorney is an important adjunct to the court, and especially if he be able, honest, and tried, like Mr. Phelps. Mr. Kelly has selected for this place a gentleman wholly without experience, it is said, in the things which the office exacts.

Mr. Timothy J. Campbell is among those picked out, or picked up, to be Civil Justices, and Mr. Campbell is certainly not an unknown man.

THE TWEED-KELLY DYNASTY.

Do you remember that possession and control of Judges and courts was a leading policy of the Tweed dynasty. Is there anything in all these moves on the judicial chess-board which reminds you of the halcyon days of old Tammany? Do not these blossoms look as if they might mature into fruit of the old flavor? Do you see any other signs to remind you of bygone days? Mr. Tweed always set great store by the officers of election. When it was necessary to add 20,000 or 30,000 to the count, as in 1868, election officers were handy things to have. What use would there be in sending out a secret circular to Democratic managers over the State to telegraph results by guess before sundown, if, after the guesses were in, the election officers would not mark up enough in the City to secure the State? The Police Commissioners now appoint the officers of election. If they will appoint as Gen. Fitz John Porter seems to appoint his subordinates, not knowing that he does appoint, it will all be easy. But suppose the Police Commissioners so far forget their allegiance as to make the appointments themselves, as the law says they shall, and suppose they even go further, and recklessly select men who will count the votes just as they are cast, then what? Why, the people would decide the election themselves, in place of having Mr. Kelly decide it; and what kind of an election would that be for Tammany Hall? Why it would be worse than no election at all. In view of this dilemma, what do we see? On the 28th of August charges were lodged with the Mayor against the Police Commissioners. If they were probable or true, and Mr. Wickham is himself Mayor, why were the charges not acted on? Instead of this, when the time draws near to appoint the Inspectors of Election, and only two weeks before election, a sudden start is made at the Commissioners, whose administration the Mayor had previously warmly praised.

THE WHOLE THING IN A NUTSHELL.

What does it mean? When you remember that Tweed's two great levers were the courts and the officers of election, does it not look as if a budding Tammany is bursting into blossom. Add to this the debt, taxes, and assessments which are rolling up against you; add the wasteful way in which your public works are being dawdled over, as testified to by Mr. Schultz and Mr. Sherwood day before yesterday before the Legislative Committee; add the fact that in violation of law a citizen of another State has been brought here to administer a department of which he confessed his ignorance; add the general state of Tammany rule, and then judge whether the World was not laboring under an error in denouncing as a falsehood an allegation that you have a sprouting Tammany among you.

If you are imprisoned in dangers, you yourselves carry the key. The time of deliverance is in the ides of November. Let this great City be wise on that day, and from the hills and the vales of the State will roll down majorities to meet you which will make the State, whose interests and whose honor are so dear to us, the fortress of honest money, of reviving prosperity, of free schools, and of genuine reform.

At the conclusion of Senator Conkling's address the resolutions were put and carried unanimously, after which the meeting adjourned, giving three cheers for the common schools.

THE CALIFORNIA RIFLE MATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—At the military short range match of the California Rifle Association to-day, under the direction of Col. H. G. Shaw, President of the Association, the attendance was good and the weather favorable, with the exception of a pretty stiff breeze across the range. The first match was 200 yards, with United States Springfield Rifles, two sighting, and seven scoring shots, the greatest possible score being 35. There were 120 contestants. The two highest scores were 30 each. In shooting off the tie, the first prize was won by 4 points, and the second by 2. The third prize was won by a score of 29. Ten competitors scored 28 each, and shot off for the remaining five prizes.

Of the 148 contestants for the Kellogg Challenge Cup, distance 500 yards, five shots, greatest possible score 25, twenty-seven scored the required fifteen points to admit them to the second stage of the match, which was deferred until to-morrow morning, after which a match between twelve teams of the National Guard will be shot.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH BISHOPS.

CAMBRIDGE, Md., Oct. 22.—The standing committee of the diocese of Easton have consented to the consecration of Rev. Dr. McLaren, Bishop-elect of Illinois; Rev Dr Brown, Bishop-elect of Fond Du Lac, and Rev. Dr. Eccleston, Bishop-elect of Iowa.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 22.—The standing committees of the Episcopal Church, Diocese of Kentucky, gave unanimous consent to-day to the consecration of the Bishops elect of Illinois, Iowa, and Fond du Lac.

AN OHIO TOWN ALMOST DESTROYED BY FIRE.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 22.—A special to the Commercial says that the town of Vermilion, near Sandusky, Ohio, was almost wholly destroyed by fire yesterday morning. Eleven business blocks in the heart of the town are in ashes. The loss is estimated at $75,000. The insurance is light. Two men have been arrested, charged with setting the place on fire.

AN ANTI-TAMMANY MEETING BROKEN UP.

Last evening the Anti-Tammany ratification meeting held in Rutgers square was broken up by Tammany roughs. The speakers, including Hon. John Morrissey, were assailed with bricks and stones and driven from the stand, and the meeting was adjourned in the utmost disorder.

HOW CRIMINALS ESCAPE.

TOLD TO THE COMMITTEE ON CRIME.

THE ESCAPE OF PRISONERS FROM PRISONS—HOW THIEVING MAY BE STOPPED—THE BUFFALO AND ERIE RAILROAD BOND FORGERIES—THE ROBBERY AT THE PALAIS ROYAL.

The Committee on Crime appointed by the Assembly met yesterday morning in the Aldermen's Chamber of the City Hall. Assemblyman Campbell, the Chairman of the committee, and Mr. McGowan were the only members present. The Chairman announced at the opening of business that Mr. Theodore Aub had resigned his position as associate counsel, and had been succeeded by Mr. John C. Weed. The first witness called was Mr. Lindsay Howe, one of the Commissioners of Accounts of New-York City. He presented a list of the sums of money paid to the detectives of the Police force by outsiders and turned in to the department; also, a list of sums paid as fines in the Chamber of Oyer and Terminer. After these had been read by Mr. Townsend, the counsel for the committee, the witness was dismissed. The next witness was Mr. Henry C. Allen. He stated that, with regard to Police Justices, they were acquainted only with the statute law, and they had no knowledge of common law. They would probably have some knowledge of the common law as regards the keeping of disorderly houses and the law of nuisances, but nothing else. They did not understand that malicious trespass, constructive larceny, or gross fraud came within the scope of criminal law, and would send people away who came with complaints of such a nature, telling them that their only remedy was in a civil suit. He was decidedly of opinion that no Magistrate should be appointed who had not a thorough knowledge of criminal law. From this point Mr. Townsend brought the witness to the question of adjournments, and he testified that during the time that he was familiar with criminal jurisdiction the Magistrate disappeared entirely from the horizon during the week that he was off duty, and the alternating Magistrates would not touch the adjourned cases of the others who had preceded them, to the great delay of justice and the annoyance and trouble of those whose cases were so adjourned.

Mr. Townsend—Have you ever known of any person holding high official position in the District Attorney's office interceding for burglars? A.—I have.

Q.—During the time you were in office? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who was that? A.—I am not certain that at the time he was holding any office.

Q.—Give me the time and I will ascertain whether he was or not. A.—The occasion I had in my mind at present was in January, 1873.

Q.—Who was the prisoner? A.—If he had not an official position I don't see that it concerns the committee at all, and therefore I decline to give his name.

Mr. Campbell said that it did not matter whether the person was an official or not it would show the manner in which things were conducted in the District Attorney's office.

Q.—Was there any person that ever went into the District Attorney's office and tried to get off a burglar on the ground that he was of service to the party? A.—Yes.

Q.—When was that? A.—In January, 1873.

Q.—Who was that party? A.—That is what I want to know about—whether he was an official or not; I am in the hands of the committee on that subject, however.

Mr. Campbell—We think it is a proper inquiry.

Q.—Who was it? A.—It was Hugh Gardner.

Q.—What was said at the time, and who was the burglar? A.—Don't remember his name.

Q.—To whom did he make this application? A.—To me; he came down and said he wanted to get this man bailed out; I believe he brought bail with him; I did not think it was a proper case where a man ought to be bailed; the man had been more or less a professional thief.

Q.—What reason did he give? A.—He said he thought it was —— fine now, our party was in office, it he could not get a little thing of that kind done.

Q.—You spoke of the case of Mike Norton, and you failed to give the names of the persons who stated to you that any arrangement had been made with Mike Norton to save him; with whom did you have any conversation on the subject? A.—I think I shall have to decline that question; it was information imparted to me in confidence, and not information to which I was entitled from my position in office.

[The witness was excused from answering.]

Q.—By whom was this bargain made? A.—By people in high authority among the Custom-house politicians; I would like to say that the burglar for whom Hugh Gardner interceded was not bailed, but his trial was pressed, and he was convicted and sent to State Prison; there was some influence exerted in favor of a person called "Rat" Reilly; I felt the influence, but don't know exactly from whence it proceeded.

Mr. Townsend then inquired with regard to the charges of election frauds against inspectors, which had been disposed of in the District Attorney's office. The witness testified that data had been given to him to prepare indictments, but that they were insufficient, and he returned them to Col. Wingate; he had subsequently been charged with having lost them, and he appealed to the District Attorney, who had them found; he remembered something about an attempt to indict Gen. Duryea; he had a conversation with Mr. Lyon on the subject; he came to him with indictments ready prepared against Charlick, Gardner, and Duryea. Allen said to him that he did not think it right to take proceedings against Gen. Duryea; that he was acquainted with the minutes of the Board of Police, and told him if matter appeared against Gen. Duryea it had been interpolated; the result was that he was not indicted.

The examination then veered to the frequent escape of prisoners from the prisons of the State. The witness was then examined with regard to the great bond case involving forgeries on the Buffalo and Erie, New-York and Erie, New-York Central, and Jersey City Railroads and some Western bonds. He had worked up the case with the Pinkerton Detective Agency, and thought the case a pretty clear one; the case was taken out of his hands a week before the trial by Mr. Phelps; the evidence for the prosecution was very strong, but he had no idea of the defense, and, therefore, could not say what the result would have been if he had continued with the case; of the nine persons whom he had caused to be arrested none remained in custody save Raymond and Blaisdell, and they were in Ludlow Street Jail on bonds of $15,000, though they had been instrumental in defrauding the public of nearly four hundred thousand dollars; he had heard that Mike Murray represented the interests of burglars and thieves and receivers from many people entitled to credence; he had also heard that the gambling-houses were protected from prosecution, and he made a general statement that in the prosecution of gamblers and lottery-keepers there was an influence which opposed the interests of justice; the statute law could not be made stronger against gambling and lotteries, and if it was enforced the evil would be put down in twenty-four hours.

The committee then took a recess and met again at 2 P. M., Messrs. Campbell, McGowan, and Dessar being present. Mr. Allen took the stand and Mr. Townsend inquired whether he could give them any information concerning the Ocean Bank robbery. The witness replied that he would advise the committee to examine a man of the name of Teal, who could possibly give them considerable information. Mr. Townsend then went into the Stiner case, which Mr. Allen explained satisfactorily, and he was then dismissed.

The next witness was Mr. George Lissner, of the Palais Royal. He stated that he had a store on Fourteenth street and Broadway, which had been robbed. He was informed of the robbery early in the morning, at the Arlington, where he lived. He went right over and found several policemen inside the store. He sent down to the Police Head-quarters, but no one came until the evening. Then the detectives, Bennett and Tilley, arrived and went away, nor he did not see them for three or four days. The articles of which he was robbed were kid gloves—"five buttons"—to the value of $2,000. About a dozen of these were found in the cellar. There were no others like them in the City, they having been imported specially by himself. A friend named Bessels came to him and told him that a man named Hamberger had shown gloves of that kind to him, and had asked him what they were worth. The witness then went down to Police Head-quarters and told Capt. Burns the circumstance, and he sent down detectives at once. Hamberger was arrested and said the gloves were shown him by Katz, a pawnbroker, of No. 811 Broadway. Katz was arrested, and the witness saw him in the presence of the Captain. He asked for his gloves and Katz was insolent, and told him if he had money to put him in prison, he [Katz] had money enough to take him out. When the preliminary hearing came off before Justice Cox, the counsel for the defendant asked him whether he would release the prisoner if he could get his gloves back. He refused, and finally Katz was indicted before the Grand Jury. Katz was released on bail, and came to him to say that he had his gloves still, and would give them back if he were released from the prosecution. All this time he was in intercourse with Mr. Allen, of the District Attorney's office, who told him to get all the information he could about the matter, let them make what offers they would, and tell him. Katz took him down to Hummel's office, where he was offered $300 if he would drop the prosecution. The next day Hummel went down with him to the District Attorney's office, and asked that the case might be withdrawn, as the prosecutor was not sure of his case. Mr. Phelps asked who was Mr. Lissner's counsel, and Hummel answered that he was. He said nothing at the time in contradiction of this false statement, but his mind misgave him, and he went to the District Attorney, Mr. Phelps, and told him everything, and he said he would consider the matter. The case came on for trial, but it was postponed again and again, and the end of it was he got neither trial nor goods. At the close of his examination he exonerated Mr. Allen, testifying that he clearly understood Mr. Allen's advice was to enable him to secure some paper that might secure a conviction.

The next witness was Mr. A. M. Petschaw, who acted for Mr. Lissner as attorney.

Mr. Lynch was now called, and after being sworn testified that he was a Commissioner of Emigration ex officio; he had examined into the case of Eliza Collins, who had been outraged on the island. A long report detailing the circumstances was read by the Clerk. At its conclusion some questions were asked by the Chairman with regard to the matter, and from the answers of the witness it appeared that the man who committed the outrage, August Major, the steward of the Small-pox Hospital, had been reinstated in his position after his acquittal. This acquittal, Mr. Lynch thought, was due to the indifference of the District Attorney's assistant, Mr. Lyon, and the active partiality of Mr. Laimbeer, one of the Commissioners of Charities and Correction. Mayor Wickham, after he had read the report, had insured the discharge of the man Major, and, as he understood, had sent him to break stones. One of the jury had also declared to the witness that he had not consented to a verdict of acquittal, and was never more surprised in his life than when they were discharged and he understood the case was settled. He had written to Mr. Phelps on the subject, and had received a polite reply, in which Mr. Lyon was defended from his charges, and a careful review was made of the proceedings of the trial. These letters were read in court, and the answer of Mr. Phelps seemed to be very cogent and satisfactory. The committee, however, to whom the witness had handed the stenographer's report of the trial, read one or two extracts from the cross-examination, which they stated were leading questions, meant to obtain favorable answers from the prisoner. The main facts were corroborated by Thomas Kinealy, an official of Castle Garden.

The next witness was Police Officer Patrick F. Burns, of the Thirtieth Precinct. He stated that he had arrested a lot of burglars who broke into a store on Walker street; they were discharged on bogus bail, which fact he brought to the attention of the Captain of the precinct and Commissioner Smith; the latter told him to arrest them again; he was informed that he could not arrest them without a bench warrant from the District Attorney's office; he went there and was told that bench warrants were out against them; then he went and arrested them on the Bowery, and took them to the District Attorney's office; then some one gave him an indictment against them, and told him to take them to the Tombs; he went there and Justice Duffy told him that he must get a bench warrant; he left them in charge of a policeman, ran down to the District Attorney's office, and got a bench warrant this time; the men were tried, at least the two he recaptured, and they were convicted and sentenced to four years and a half; when he arrested them for the second time they resisted his authority, and said the matter had been settled down below; he did not know what they meant by down below, but thought it alluded to some power in the precinct who controlled things; he thought it alluded to Detective Fields.

The committee then adjourned to Tuesday next, at 11 A. M., to meet at Ludlow Street Jail.

THE BANKRUPTCY RETURNS.

FAILURES DURING NINE MONTHS OF THE PRESENT YEAR IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA.

The failures in the United States and the Dominion of Canada for the first three quarters of the present year, as reported by the mercantile agency of Dun, Barlow & Co., are as follows: Total number of failures in the United States, 5,334; total amount of liabilities, $131,172,503. Total failures in the Dominion of Canada, 1,569; amount of liabilities, $21,911,544. The failures in the United States for the first quarter were 1,982; liabilities, $43,176,953; second quarter, 1,581; liabilities, $33,667,313; third quarter, 1,771; liabilities, $54,328,237. Dominion of Canada, first quarter, 396; liabilities, $4,141,340; second quarter, 432; liabilities, $7,876,104; third quarter, 741; liabilities, $9,894,100.

Messrs. Dun, Barlow & Co. make the following comment on the above figures as compared with those of previous years: "Owing to the fact that this is the first year in which quarterly returns of failures have been compiled, it is impossible to institute an accurate comparison with similar periods included in the above figures. But with the total failures of previous entire years before us, divided by three-fourths, a comparative result is reached which will be sufficient for all practical purposes." The total failures for 1872 were 4,067, with total liabilities of $121,056,000; three-fourths of failures, 3,050; three-fourths of liabilities, $90,794,000: 1873, failures, 5,183; liabilities, $228,499,000; three-fourths of failures, 3,887; three-fourths of liabilities, $171,374,000; 1874, failures, 5,830; liabilities, $155,239,000; three-fourths of failures, 4,371; three-fourths of liabilities, $116,429,000; 1875, failures for nine months, 5,334; liabilities, $131,172,000. Average failures for nine months of four years, 4,160; average liabilities for nine months of four years, $127,442,000. Excess in number of failures for past nine months, 1,174; excess of liabilities for same period, $3,730,000. In New-York City the failures for the past nine months number 546, with liabilities amounting to $31,000,000. Referring to the same number of months in previous years, we find the failures in 1874 were 483, with liabilities of $24,060,000; in 1873 the failures in the nine months were 498, with liabilities of $69,000,000; and in 1872 the number was 315, with liabilities of $15,000,000. Taking the average of the nine months in four years, the result is 460 failures, with average liabilities of $35,000,000. So that, though the above figures for New-York look somewhat startling, their comparison with the average of years indicates that they are not very excessive. It must also be borne in mind that, included in the failures of the past quarter, there were a few of exceptionally heavy character—four concerns alone in New-York City aggregating liabilities of over eight millions of dollars. This fact also more than accounts for the increase of liabilities resulting from the failures for the entire country, as shown in the above comparative table. The increased number of failures, however, not only in New-York, but in numerous sections of the country, is an important indication of the pressure of the times, and, if not accounted for, may create some apprehension as to the future.

NEW-YORK'S WATER SUPPLY

THE PROTECTION AGAINST FIRE.

TESTIMONY OF CHIEF ENGINEER CAMPBELL BEFORE THE SENATE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE—MORE FACILITIES WANTED IN DOWN-TOWN LOCALITIES—HOW KELLY TRIED TO MANIPULATE THE GRAND JURY.

The Senate Investigating Committee continued its investigation yesterday into the affairs of the Department of Public Works, Senator Booth presiding, and Commissioner Davenport conducting the examination. The indictment of Commissioners Charlick and Gardner was also disclosed, and the fact made plain as to how John Kelly tried to manipulate the Grand Jury in July, 1874, for the removal of these two men from office, as well as the manner in which the Jury failed to indict Commissioner Duryee, although there was precisely the same evidence against him as against the other Commissioners.

John C. Campbell, Chief Engineer of the Department of Public Works, testified that his duties were mainly confined to the Croton Aqueduct and its connections; he was appointed Sept. 1 to succeed the late Chief Engineer Tracy; had been up to that time and from May, 1870, First Assistant Engineer of the department; there were about 400 men under his direction; most of them employed on the "big pipes;" witness had nothing to do with the employment or appointment of those men, but the appointments of foremen and supervisors passed through his office; had nothing to do with recommending or appointing employes, but was always anxious to retain good men. Joseph F. Palmer was keeper of the Tarrytown Aqueduct until lately, and had filled that position for two years; he was removed a few days since and Fernando Wood, Jr., appointed. There were eight keepers, and of these six had been changed lately; these changes were not made on the recommendation of witness, but he and Mr. Tracy had some consultations with regard to them; the department had entered into arrangements contemplating the use of what was known as the Woodward water-meters, and there was a large number of those meters on hand now—some two hundred and fifty of them; the City had contracted for nearly one million dollars worth of the Navarro water-meters, and the meters had been made and delivered; but the whole question relating to them was in litigation now; the objections raised on the part of the City in that suit was that there was fraud in the making of the contract; the department had authority now to apply these meters wherever an extra volume of water was used; my view of the policy of using these meters is that it effects considerable saving of water—people are more economical; it did not increase the City revenue exactly, but might do so indirectly by preventing people from wasting water; the contract with the City for the right to supply water to the shipping in the port was with the firm of Caulfield & Co.; they pay the City about $4,000 per month, and sell water to all the shipping; witness was aware that it was the practice of the ferry companies to leave their boiler-supply hose running during the Winter, and it necessarily led to much waste; the contract with Caulfield required him to prevent waste of water; the department at this time is bringing into the City about 100 gallons per capita of population daily; that was proportionately larger than the supply of most other cities: the department was also building a storage reservoir in Putnam County, at the town of Southeast; that work was being done under contract by Belden & Denison, the canal contractors; there were perhaps twenty or twenty-five men engaged in finishing up the work at Boyd's Corners; that force had not lately been increased.

Q.—As to the $500,000 which have been asked from the Board of Aldermen, is no portion of that to be expended in your bureau? A.—It is to be used in laying pipe; my bureau has charge of the procuring, protection, and distribution of the water; the water purveyor has charge of the laying of the pipes, under our general direction; the determination as to what shall be done originates in my bureau.

Q.—Where is this $500,000 to be expended? A.—Considerable of it in the new wards; a new pipe also is to be laid to Ward's Island; then a large amount of pipe is to be laid on the east side, to get water down town more freely; the money recently voted by the Board of Apportionment is to be expended on the upper part of Madison avenue, and on Fifth avenue, from Fifty-seventh street down; the drainage area of the Croton Aqueduct Department is about three hundred and forty square miles; orders for employment of men come to me in a sealed letter, and I have no way of identifying the person presenting it except by asking him his name and seeing whether it corresponds with the name in the envelope.

DEFICIENT WATER SUPPLY IN THE LOWER WARDS.

Q.—Mr. Campbell, how is the water supply at the present time in the lower wards of the City? A.—It is deficient to some extent—that is to say, the supply is there, but it has to pass such a long way through small pipes that its "head" is reduced down town. The largest mains are four-feet mains, and these are upon Tenth avenue to Thirty-eighth street. There is one also down Madison avenue. The next size is the three-feet mains—one of these is on upper Fifth avenue; another on Broadway below Fourteenth street, and another down Fourteenth street to Avenue A. The next sizes are 30-inch, then 20-inch. There is a 30-inch main down Second avenue. A 20-inch main runs down Eighth avenue to about Fourteenth street. Most of the 20-inch mains are on the west side and across town.

Q.—What are your largest mains below Canal street? A.—We have one three-feet pipe down Madison avenue to Twenty-sixth street, thence to Third avenue and the Bowery to Chambers street; I think the main on Broadway is a 30-inch pipe.

Q.—Take Wall street and the neighborhood of Fulton street—what are the mains down there—what supply of water have you got down there? A.—Well, it is rather short down there; I think the Broadway main there is a 24-inch one.

Q.—Well, suppose there should be a large fire in that neighborhood, what, in your judgment, is the water supply—is it sufficient? A.—I think it would be safer to have some more large pipes there; we have contemplated laying a 20-inch main through Nassau street from Chambers street; if we had secured that $500,000 that work would have been done.

Q.—I am told that a single fire-engine in that immediate neighborhood has been known to "run ahead" of the water? A.—Some of those large steam fire-engines use a great deal of water, and along some of the 6-inch mains, where there are three hydrants, I suppose the engines would not all be supplied.

Q.—I am told that a single engine has not been able to get a supply of water—well, as things stand to-day, the amount of water there is totally inadequate for the supply for fire purposes alone? A.—I should not say it is totally inadequate; I should say it would be better, safer, to give them a better supply; I cannot tell from memory what fire-plugs there are on any block down there, but we have maps showing their location.

Q.—We are told that on the block bounded by Broadway, Cedar, Nassau, and Pine streets, at most a couple of years ago, there was not a single fire plug. Do you know anything about that? A.—I do not. The main running down Nassau street is a 6-inch main; in Wall street I believe there is a 12-inch main, and a 20-inch main in Fulton. Toward the East River, below Pearl, I think there are none but 6-inch mains. New Church street, I think, has a 12-inch main only as far down as Fulton street and below that it is a 6-inch pipe. In Greenwich and Washington streets there are 12-inch pipes. Below Rector street, to the Battery, also the supply is deficient.

Q.—In the case I refer to, where the engine ran ahead of its water, the engine was stationed at the corner of Nassau and Pine streets. Where would you advise the Fire Department to put its hose to obtain a better supply? A.—I should not suggest to or advise the Fire Department. This new main that is in contemplation down Nassau street would help very much in case of a conflagration; but you tell me when people are going to cease pulling down three-story buildings, forty feet deep, and putting up six and seven story buildings occupying the whole lot, and I will tell you when the water supply will be sufficient.

Commissioner Davenport—Well, the people won't stop doing that for some time yet. Have the Fire Department and insurance companies applied very frequently for additional water in the commercial part of the City—down town? A.—Yes, Sir, and very anxiously. They have frequently urged it on the department. There has been considerable talk about it for two years past.

Q.—Where do you intend to expend this $500,000 that has been applied for? A.—On Fifth avenue, and laying larger pipes down the east side, and in the new wards.

Q.—Do you deem the exigencies of the upper part of the City as greater than those of the lower part of the City? A.—That is purely a matter of judgment. In Fifth avenue there is nothing but a six-inch pipe; I don't know whether there is as much danger from conflagration there as in the lower part of the City; I should not care to pass upon that question.

Q.—Does it not become a question for you to consider, in expending money for the water supply, the exigencies of the lower part of the City, where there are large warehouses, high buildings, narrow streets, and great accumulations of property in stores, whether these exigencies are not greater than those of the less valuable parts of the City, where the water supply is for the convenience of families merely? A.—In expending money for these mains up town we increase the facilities for getting water down town.

Q.—But only to a limited degree? A.—Well, yes, to a limited degree; the expense of carrying this new main through Nassau street I think would be about $30,000; I don't think it would be advisable to expend that amount for that purpose first; the up-town improvements will increase the down-town supply.

KELLY AND THE GRAND JURY.

Hugh Auchincloss, residing at No. 117 West Forty-ninth street, and doing business as a dry-goods merchant, was called, and he identified a list of names of gentlemen who served as Grand Jurors in July, 1874; witness was foreman of that Grand Jury; that jury found indictments against Police Commissioners Gardner and Charlick.

Q.—By whom was your attention first called to that matter? A.—By Mr. John Kelly; he called at my office in White street and I was not in; the next time he called was a day or two afterward; he was very much interested about the subject of our bringing in indictments against Messrs. Gardner and Charlick for malfeasance in office, and made a great oration to me about the defense of our liberties and so on, and what was being done to reform our Government and all that.

Q.—What did he want you to do? A.—He wanted me to bring the case of these two Commissioners before the Grand Jury, and I declined to do it, and told Mr. Kelly that I thought the Grand Jury could not legally take up that matter unless it came from a committing Magistrate; otherwise, unless the jury consented, I could not do it; he talked with me a long time, and that was the purport of his conversation—that we were being tampered with by these politicians, and that justice should be done; I finally said I would call the attention of the jury to it, and see if they were willing to investigate it; I did subsequently call their attention to it, and one of the jurors finally moved to take it up.

Q.—From the evidence submitted to the Grand Jury, was it shown that Mr. Duryee was present at the meeting of the board with Charlick and Gardner, where the action complained of was taken? A.—Yes, Sir; the Clerk of the Board of Police, Mr. Hawley, was present before the Grand Jury.

Q.—And on the testimony of Mr. Hawley it appeared that he kept the minutes of the board meeting at that time? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—And that Charlick, Gardner, and Duryee were all present? A.—All present.

Q.—And that the action taken by one of them was the action of all of them? A.—Yes, the action of the whole of them; I asked Mr. Hawley if the "yeas" and "nays" were taken and he said they were called, and that no member answered.

Q.—And in the board that was always an affirmative vote, when the names were called, and no one objected or voted adversely? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—How was action taken in reference to the vote on the indictment? A.—One of the gentlemen on the jury moved that a vote be taken seriatim, and of course I had to do so; the first move that was made was, I think, on Charlick; I don't remember precisely, but it was either Charlick or Gardner who was voted on first.

Q.—And the vote was to indict them? A.—To indict them.

Q.—And when the vote on Duryea was taken what was the vote? A.—I think it was to dismiss the bill.

Q.—The same testimony being presented as to all three of them? A.—The same as to all three, and that was the result; Mr. John Foley called on me about that time also, and wanted me to take up other indictments, but I declined to do so.

At this point the committee adjourned to Monday morning.

LOCAL POLITICAL NOTES.

A Frederick A. Schroeder Club was formed at Kraushaar's Assembly Rooms in the First Ward, Brooklyn, last evening.

The Anti-Tammany Convention of the Nineteenth Assembly District last evening nominated Anthony Feehan for Assembly.

Mr. William H. Curtis received the Republican nomination for Assembly in the Seventh Assembly District of Kings County last evening.

Francis R. Purcell and Charles Brooke were last evening nominated for Aldermen by the Anti-Tammany Convention of the Seventh Senatorial District.

The Anti-Tammany Democrats of the Eighth Assembly District met at No. 7 Delancey street last evening, and nominated Mr. Robert E. Buckhart for Assembly.

The young men of the Seventh Ward last night organized a campaign club at No. 116 Madison street, and resolved to support John Morrissey for Senator.

The Anti-Tammany Convention of the Seventh Judicial District met last evening at National Hall, West Forty-fourth street, and nominated Edward J. McGean for Civil Justice.

I. Albert Englehart is the Republican candidate for the Assembly in the Twentieth District, and is regarded as having the best chance of success. He is very popular in the district.

The Ninth Assembly District Convention (Tammany) met last evening at No. 499 Hudson street, and nominated Dr. B. F. Vosburg for the Assembly. The convention was addressed by John W. Browning.

The National Guard are enthusiastic friends of Col. Henry A. Gildersleeve, the Republican candidate for Judge of the Court of Common Pleas. Many of them declare their intention of making a holiday of the day of election and working for him at the polls.

The Republicans are certain of electing two Aldermen at Large by the minority system of voting. Messrs. Oliver P. C. Billings and Jacob Hess, the candidates, have made good records for themselves, Mr. Billings in the present board, and Mr. Hess in the Assembly.

John Morrissey is working vigorously to secure his election in the Fourth Senatorial District. He says that he feels certain of winning a victory over an opponent like John Fox, notwithstanding the fact that John Kelly will use all the power and influence he possesses to defeat him.

Letters from the rural districts continue to pour into the head-quarters of the Republican State Committee at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. Nearly all of them bring cheering intelligence of the situation of the party affairs in the State. The meetings held in the country are uniformly successful.

With James W. Booth as their candidate for Senator, the Republicans of the Fifth Senatorial District are confident of success, notwithstanding the fact that the Tammany candidate, Sidney P. Nichols, has resolved to spend considerable money to secure his election, and is nightly increasing the receipts of the liquor saloons in the Eighth, Ninth, Fifteenth, and Sixteenth Wards.

A mass-meeting of the German Republican Club of the Eleventh Assembly District was held at the head-quarters, No. 386 Eighth avenue, Thursday evening, Gen. George Van Schaik in the chair. Speeches were made by Messrs. Rothschild and Luder, and the State and County tickets indorsed; after which Mr. Charles A. Peabody and Mr. Frederick G. Gedney addressed the meeting.

At a meeting of the Twenty-first Ward Brooklyn Republican Association held in Stella Hall last evening, Mr. George, President of the Taxpayers Association of that ward, denounced the Democratic Ring, and particularly the notorious James Howell, the Democratic candidate for Supervisor at Large. The meeting was also addressed by Mr. Albert Daggett, the Republican candidate for Sheriff.

Benjamin K. Phelps, it is believed by Republicans, will be elected District Attorney by a large majority. It is said on good authority that his Tammany opponent, Peter B Olney, never drew a criminal indictment in his life. Mr. Olney, with a view to preferment by Kelly, joined the Tammany Hall General Committee, and his first success in the race for Kelly's favor was to be made a Vice Chairman.

In strong contrast with the excitement which has prevailed recently at the down-town head-quarters of the Anti-Tammany Democrats, in the Express building, everything was quiet yesterday. The leaders of the party have completed their list of candidates and have gone to work with a will. Mass-meetings are to be held in every Assembly district in rapid succession.

The German Republican Campaign Club of the Twentieth Assembly District held a well-attended ratification meeting at their head-quarters, No. 867 Third avenue, Thursday night. Hon Jacob Hess, I. Albert Englehart, A. J. Dittenhoefor, ex-Alderman Koch, and Messrs. Herman Cantor and Leopold Weil made addresses. On motion a committee of five was appointed to make arrangements for a general German mass-meeting.

George W. Parker, the Republican candidate for Civil Justice in the Third Judicial District, is a gentleman well known in that part of the City, and highly respected by the legal fraternity. His Tammany opponent, Arthur J. Delaney, is far below him in ability and has not even the respect of his party, the members of the Tammany Hall General Committee taking every occasion, when he is not present, to ridicule his pretensions.

The Michael W. Travers Republican Association of the Thirteenth Assembly District held a ratification meeting last evening at No. 146 Seventh avenue, near Nineteenth street. The meeting was largely attended and was very enthusiastic. Addresses were made by Robert H. Strahan, Frederick G. Gedney, Hon. Charles Blackie, Hon. James McFarland, and others. Resolutions were adopted indorsing the Republican nominations in the State and district.

The Tenth Assembly District Republican Convention, which appointed a Committee of Conference a week ago, reassembled last evening at Concordia Hall, Avenue A, and unanimously nominated Mr. Joseph Hoffman, Jr., for Assemblyman. Mr. Hoffman is a German by birth, but has resided in this City a number of years. Among his countrymen and the citizens generally of the Tenth District, he is very popular, and will undoubtedly receive a large vote.

WASHINGTON.

THE ST. LOUIS WHISKY RING.

BASSETT, THE GAUGER, PROMISES TO CONFESS, AND EXPOSE THE RING, IF THE SUIT AGAINST HIS BONDSMEN IS ABANDONED.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Bassett, one of the St. Louis Gaugers charged with conspiracy to defraud the revenue, has appealed to the Secretary of the Treasury to abandon the civil suit against his bondsmen. If this be done he expresses willingness to stand trial on the criminal charge, and to make full confession of what he knows of the operations of the Whisky Ring. In the judgments already rendered against the distillers and rectifiers of St. Louis, the Government is fully secured from all losses, and Bassett and his bondsmen pray that the Government will not visit punishment on the latter, who are entirely innocent of any wrong doing. Bassett asks for no clemency for himself.

A VACANT JUDGESHIP.

JOHN QUINCY FELLOWS A CANDIDATE FOR THE VACANT BENCH IN THE FIRST LOUISIANA DISTRICT.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct 22.—John Quincy Fellows is being pressed for appointment as Judge of the United States District Court for the First Louisiana District, made vacant by the resignation of Durell. Last Winter Mr. Pardee was nominated for this place. A bitter fight was made against his confirmation, and several days of the extra session of Senate were consumed in considering his case. The President declined to withdraw his appointment, and the Senate failed to act upon it, thus leaving that District without a Judge. Upon the adjournment of the Senate the President submitted to the Attorney General the question whether he could fill the vacancy. Decision was made that the Senate having failed to confirm any one, no appointment could be made until the coming session. It is held that no appointment can be made under this decision until after Congress shall meet, yet a Louisiana delegation is here urging the appointment of Fellows. Fellows has been a resident of Louisiana for many years and was prominent in the troubles in that State last Winter.

TAXES ON SUBSIDY LANDS.

A DECISION BY THE COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE—NOTES FOR LANDS SOLD FOR A ROUND SUM, WITHOUT INTEREST, SUBJECT TO TAXATION.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has had under consideration a question growing out of the donation of public lands to the Illinois Central Railroad Company. The company sold certain of these lands and took notes therefor. These notes were not, however, in the usual form, that is, for certain sums with interest thereon, but were for certain round sums payable at a certain fixed time in the future, without any interest clause. It is not denied, however, that these notes were made for sums larger than the cash price of said lands at the time of sale, or that they were so made on account of the length of time they were to run.

The company included in their dividends moneys collected from time to time on said notes. They now claim that so much of their dividends as arose from money received upon said notes is not subject to taxation, and that such money did not constitute earnings, profits, income, or gains, within the meaning of those words as employed in the statute. The Commissioner rules that a sum equal to the value of those notes at the time they were given, i. e., their then present worth, is not liable to dividend tax, but that so much of the amount received on said notes over and above said value, as is referable to the years in which dividends were taxable, should be treated as interest, constitutes a part of the profits, income, and gains of the company, and is liable to tax.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

AN OLD COUNTERFEITER ARRESTED—ANOTHER DEFICIENCY IN THE TREASURY—THE SITUATION IN MISSISSIPPI.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The most notorious engraver of counterfeit plates known in the business, Tom Ballard not excepted, has been arrested by the Secret Service force of the Treasury Department. The name of the criminal is Ben Boyd, well known in detective circles, and for whom unsuccessful search has been made for the past ten years. He was arrested at Fulton, Ill., a small town on the Mississippi River, while in the act of engraving a plate. In the room he occupied were found a twenty-dollar, a hundred-dollar, and a thousand-dollar plate, partly completed. The fact of his arrest was telegraphed to Col. Washburn, at Centralia, where he, with three detectives of the service, made a raid on the counterfeit factory, which was situated in the residence portion of the town. Just before the detectives reached the house Nelson Driggs, the proprietor of the factory, (a man who has circulated over a million dollars of counterfeit money within the last ten years,) and Charley Stadtfeldt, his partner, made their escape, but were pursued eight miles on horseback by Col. Washburn and two detectives, and finally captured in a piece of timber after having been fired at several times. In the house occupied by Driggs the detectives found the press, plates, material, and a large amount of counterfeit national bank notes and currency recently printed. They also arrested Stadtfeldt, and the father, mother, and wife of Driggs. The engraver, Boyd, is the man who cut the counterfeit plate of the Traders' National Bank of Chicago, which has been within a month changed to that of the Aurora National Bank of Aurora, Ill. A considerable number of notes printed from it are now in circulation, seven persons having been arrested within a week for passing them.

A report prevailed this afternoon of another Treasury robbery. It is true that a deficiency of about two thousand dollars has been discovered, but it is not yet known whether it is an error in account or a case of larceny.

Gov. Ames has written a letter to the Attorney General alluding to the pacific relations of the opposing political organizations in Mississippi, and expressing sincere gratitude to the representative of the Attorney General, now in that State, who has brought about this condition of things, and, as the Governor says, "insured a peaceful campaign and a fair election."

The following were the balances in the Treasury at the close of business to-day: Currency, $6,640,488; special deposit of legal tenders for the redemption of certificates of deposit, $63,600,000; coin, including $11,238,000 in coin certificates, $69,003,720; outstanding legal tenders, $373,941,124. The receipts from internal revenue to-day were $328,947 92, and from Customs, $426,352 82.

The President has appointed William H. Howard, of Texas, Register of the Land Office at Bozeman, Montana.

THE "DRAWBACK" ON REFINED SUGARS—THE WEISS BEER TAX—THE GALVESTON LIGHT—NEW MAIL ROUTE ORDERED FROM PITTSBURG TO ST. LOUIS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—In view of the fact that the order of Oct. 9, 1875, reducing the rate of drawback on refined sugars would operate as a great hardship if applied to cases of shipments which may hereafter be made of sugars purchased for exportation at a price fixed before the promulgation of said order in pursuance of valid previous contracts, the order has been modified by the Secretary of the Treasury so as to exempt such cases from its operation. In the adjustment of drawback claims in cases of the above description, satisfactory evidence is required of the purchase having been made, or the contract for the shipment entered into previous to that date on which the order of Oct. 9 went into effect.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that weiss beer is a fermented liquor similar to ale, porter, and lager beer, and subject to a tax of $1 per barrel of thirty-one gallons. This question has been the subject of considerable correspondence between the department and weiss beer manufacturers, and their claims to exemption from tax have been fully argued. The department holds if it be said that this beer is subject to the exemptions of root and other small beers this avails nothing, as that exemption was repealed. The ground upon which the decision is made is that it is made of malt and of hops, and the only difference between it and lager beer and other beers is in its strength. The percentage of alcohol in the weiss beer is found to be such as to subject it to the taxation above mentioned.

The Light-house Board gives notice that the Galveston Light-vessel parted her moorings and went aground off Pelican Spit on the 16th of September last. It is found that repairs will be required before she can resume her station. Due notice of her reestablishment will be given.

The Post Office Department to-day decided to order railway postal car service between the Cities of Pittsburg and St. Louis, via the Pan Handle and Vandalia route, passing through Indianapolis. The railway companies will immediately provide the requisite cars, and the service will be begun as soon as the department can make the necessary arrangements in regard to clerical labor and alterations of existing schedules. By this means it is calculated that the present postal facilities of a very large portion of the Ohio and Mississippi River Valleys will be greatly augmented and improved.

EXECUTION AT ST. LOUIS.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 22.—About two thousand people were present at the execution of Henry Brown, the negro, who was hanged to-day in the jail-yard of this county, for the murder of Philip Pfarr and the violation and robbery of Mrs. Pfarr. All the forenoon the doomed man was melancholy and uncommunicative. At 11 A. M. his two sisters called to see him, and bade him farewell. At 1 P. M. he was led to the scaffold. It was evident that he was under the influence of liquor. He made a rambling speech, lasting almost a half hour, having to be reminded by the officers of the law and the priest in attendance that it was time to stop. His harangue was incoherent, such as any drunken man would make. He said that he only struck Mr. Pfarr in self defense, and denied outraging Mrs. Pfarr. Death was instant, the fall breaking his neck, and he was put in the coffin eight minutes after the drop fell.

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 22.—The case of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad was called to-day in the United States Circuit Court, Judge Bond presiding.

Mr. Storrs, of New-York, of counsel for the railroad, read an answer of the company to the bill of the plaintiffs, denying the allegations of the improper management of the road and the proceeds, and praying that Gen. W. C. Wickham, Vice President of the road, be appointed permanent Receiver.

Mr. Macfarland, of New-York, counsel for the Trustees in the first Chesapeake and Ohio mortgage, together with the counsel for the second Chesapeake and Ohio mortgage and for certain bondholders, united in the prayer for Gen. Wickham's appointment. State Attorney General Daniel, in behalf of the State, presented a petition asking to be admitted as a party to the suit, claiming that the State was the guarantor of $1,000,000 of bonds of the old Virginia Central Railroad, now the Chesapeake and Ohio, and was also a holder of $2,000,000 of bonds and stocks. The State also claimed a forfeiture of the road to the State, by reason of the non-completion of the road as prescribed by law, and asked for the appointment of Mr. Isaac H. Carrington as Receiver. Judge Bond took the papers under consideration, and promised to report his decision in three or four days.

THE CATHOLIC BENEVOLENT UNION.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 22.—In the Catholic Benevolent Union meeting to-day a series of resolutions were unanimously adopted expressing sympathy with the Pope and with their suffering brethren in Italy and Germany. The last paragraph deplores the course pursued by too many of the secular papers on all questions affecting the Church in her present conflict. It was ordered that the union institute a Board of Colonization. The proposition to erect a memorial fountain in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, was indorsed, as was also the general celebration of the Centennial. Officers were elected as follows: President, Hon. A. M. Keiley, of Richmond, Va.; Vice Presidents—First, Father Phelan, of St. Louis; Second, W. C. McFadden, of St. Louis; Secretary, D. J. Griffin, of Philadelphia; Treasurer, Rev. Father Henry, of St. Louis; Executive Committee, Luke R. Flynn, of Rochester; Patrick Bannon and George Chance, of Wilmington, Del. The next meeting will be held at Cleveland, Ohio.

A PANIC AT A WEDDING.

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—Fortunately Dedham was spared being the scene of a Holyoke holocaust last evening, but only by a hair's breadth. The galleries of the Orthodox Church were crowded with human beings to witness a wedding, and just as the services were to begin all in the east gallery leaned forward to get a better view of the performance, when the gallery settled some three or four inches with a crack. Quick as thought the spectators settled back and saved a terrible disaster. When the church was altered a few years since the old supports were taken out and new-fangled iron braces put in their place, which leaves a very long stretch of gallery without any extra support. The building is lighted by gas-jets running along the fronts of the galleries, and had there been a break fire as well as crushing must have ensued, and the result would have been terrible to contemplate. The Trustees have now had ample warning, and in the future, should any accident happen through their neglect to properly strengthen the weak places, a fearful responsibility will rest upon their heads.

THE LANGMAID MURDER.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 22.—Detectives to-day arrested a woman, who confessed to having lived with La Page in Canada as his wife, and that La Page assaulted, ravished, and left for dead her sister, aged twenty-two years, and to escape punishment fled to Vermont. Evidence is hourly accumulating showing him to be a monster of crime and brutal passions. The officers are satisfied he is guilty of the Langmaid murder. If this crime cannot be fastened on him, he will be taken to Vermont and tried for the murder of Miss Ball.

This is the last opportunity, and all who desire to see the affairs of the City taken from the rule of Tammany Hall will not forget to register and to vote.

THE CANAL INVESTIGATION.

THE COMMITTEE'S EIGHTH REPORT.

HOW STATE CREDITORS WERE SERVED—THE HISTORY OF THE BAXTER CLAIM AND THE CANADA RAILROAD SUBSIDY.

The eighth report of the Canal Investigating Commission was presented to Gov. Tilden Friday. Following are its chief features:

An act passed June 8, 1874, directed the Controller of the State to pay William Baxter, or his legal representatives, for building and equipping certain steam-boats for the navigation of the canals the sum of $35,000. On applying for the money to the Controller in the following month, the assignee of Mr. Baxter was informed that in consequence of the, doubtless accidental, omission of the appropriation clause in the bill there would be no fund out of which this bill could be paid until the annual taxes came in in the following Spring. He stated, however, that he would pay the claim if the Attorney General would give an opinion that he would be warranted in so doing. We will give what followed in the language of Mr. H. H. Van Dyck, the agent and assignee of Baxter: "I asked him [the Controller] if he would obtain the opinion of the Attorney General on the subject. He said he would, but on inquiry, it appeared that the Attorney General was not in town at the time, but he said he would obtain it on his return; I came up again about ten days afterward, and the Attorney General was in town, but the Controller was absent; I called upon the Attorney General to ask him in reference to the matter whether the Controller had asked his opinion upon that question, and he said he had not; I then called the attention of the Attorney General to the act itself, and after reading it, he said he didn't see why it might not be paid if there was money out of which to pay it, but inasmuch as he didn't know what the objections of the Controller were to paying, he would not volunteer any opinion in the matter until he was specifically asked by the Controller; I then left town without seeing the Controller, but met him in New-York accidentally soon afterward, and told him of my visit to Gen. Pratt, and that I was surprised he had not asked his opinion upon the matter. I don't remember what reason he gave for not having done it, but he said he would do it, as I understood him distinctly, that he would ask him; not hearing anything upon the subject, I came up again, but I think in this very interview in New-York—I am quite sure it was at that interview—he told me that there was a person who had obtained an opinion from the Attorney General in a case nearly analogous to this one of Baxter, but that it cost the parties a thousand dollars for the services of such person; he said distinctly, as I said before, that he would ask for the opinion of the Attorney General; I came up again, perhaps a fortnight or ten days afterward, and asked the Controller whether he had asked the Attorney General for his opinion, and he replied 'No;' he either said it wasn't his business or that he wouldn't go out to obtain opinions from any one for the purpose of drawing money from the Treasury; but in the conversation he told me that there was a person who he thought might obtain the opinion from the Attorney General; this person had done so in another case; but that he required or received $1,000 for his services in the matter."

Mr. Van Dyck, despairing of getting the money in any other way, finally concluded to avail himself of the services of the gentleman referred to by the Controller, who proved to be Thaddeus C. Davis, the Canal Appraiser. He says:

"I told him I would pay him $1,000 if I got the money; the Attorney General was at Syracuse, and this gentleman was to call there and see him immediately; in the mean time Mr. Baxter had received information from his brother-in-law in Troy that there was a gentleman in that city who would probably take the claim at ten per cent. reduction from the face; these being the only alternatives open to me—of obtaining the opinion of the Attorney General or submitting to the discount proposed—I was anxious to avail myself of the Attorney General's opinion, which would only cost $1,000, whereas, in the other case, Mr. Baxter would be compelled to submit to a discount of $3,500; I accordingly arranged with the gentleman who was to take the warrant at a discount, to wait until 1 o'clock of the following day, by which time I expected to receive a telegram from Syracuse stating whether the opinion of the Attorney General had or had not been obtained; not receiving any reply from him, I sold the claim at a reduction of ten per cent., or $3,500, as the exigencies of Mr. Baxter were such as to admit of no longer delay; he sent me a draft for the amount as agreed the second day after."

The gentleman in Troy here referred to proved to be Francis S. Thayer, the Auditor of the Canal Department. It appears by the testimony of Mr. Hopkins, the Controller, that he gave Mr. Davis a letter to take to the Attorney General at Syracuse, dated Jan. 14. The opinion of the Attorney General was received at the Controller's office on the 18th of January—the same month. Why it was necessary to send to Syracuse for the opinion of the Attorney General, when his office was in the same building with the Controller, and up only one pair of stairs, and why it was necessary to send the request for his opinion by Mr. Davis, instead of sending it by post, and why, in case the Attorney General was out of town, Mr. Hopkins could not be content with the opinion of the Deputy Attorney General, which he had been constantly in the habit of accepting, both before and after this incident, are questions which Mr. Hopkins does not satisfactorily explain.

The Attorney General testifies that, prior to the receipt of Mr. Hopkins' note, he had stated to the Controller, in the Controller's office, that he thought there was no difficulty about paying this claim, and that he thought it safe enough to pay it. He left town immediately after this conversation, under the impression that the Controller was entirely satisfied. He received the Controller's letter, conveyed by Davis, at Syracuse, on the following morning, and sent him his written opinion.

The Deputy Attorney General also testifies that he became satisfied of the Controller's authority to pay the claim, and one day, when casually in the Controller's office on other business, stated to him that these parties had been to him twice; had rather excited his sympathies for their pecuniary condition, and that, if the Controller wished his views as to the objections to paying the award, he would like to hear the Controller's opinion before he decided, as he had heard the argument of the claimant; to which the Controller replied that he didn't wish any opinion from Mr. Fairchild. He didn't want any opinion from anybody but the Attorney General; "whereupon," says Mr. Fairchild, "I begged his pardon for having partially volunteered an opinion, and went out."

Thus it appears that considerably more than a month elapsed after Mr. Hopkins had expressed his difficulty about making the payment of this claim without the opinion of the Attorney General, before he made application for it, though, when he did, it was furnished without the loss of a single mail. It did not arrive in time to be of any service to the State creditor, who was obliged to pay $3,500 to obtain what was only his legal right. From the testimony of Mr. Thayer and of the Attorney General, it appears that before Mr. Thayer closed his negotiations with Mr. Van Dyck he had ascertained from the Attorney General in person that his opinion was favorable to the payment of the claim. It also appears that the Auditor and Controller had a full understanding with each other in regard to the pressing necessities of the Baxter claimants and the various efforts making to remove the technical obstacles to their payment, but, unfortunately for them, Mr. Thayer was in a position to learn the Attorney General's opinion, by which he put into his pocket $3,500 that he was not entitled to, and for the want of which they were obliged to sacrifice the $3,500 that they were entitled to.

Almost contemporaneously with those proceedings under the Baxter award, the Controller's office was the theatre of another transaction so closely resembling this in its more important features that they mutually illustrate and characterize each other. Of this, also, Mr. Appraiser Davis is the hero. In the act of incorporation of the Plattsburg and Whitehall Railroad, the sum of $70,390 was given as a subsidy to that corporation, contingent upon its completion to Ticonderoga. In 1872 that road was purchased by the New-York and Canada Railroad, and with it the equities of this appropriation. When the work was completed in the Fall of 1874, the President, I. V. Baker, applied to the Controller for his warrant for his money. Mr. Hopkins expressed his apprehensions that the appropriation had lapsed, some two days having intervened between the time fixed for the completion of the road and the passage of the act reviving the appropriation. The result of several interviews with the parties in interest was, that he would require the opinion of the Attorney General. Early in December, Mr. Baker tells us, he came down to Albany, and in company with Joseph H. Ramsey and Senator Tobey, waited upon the Controller, who reiterated to them his objections and the necessity of procuring the opinion of the Attorney General before he could pay. He declined himself to procure the opinion of the Attorney General, and when one of the party—Mr. Baker is not sure whether it was the Controller or one of his companions—suggested that there was a Mr. Davis who could procure the opinion of the Attorney General, Mr. Baker replied he didn't know Mr. Davis. Thereupon, says Mr. Baker, the Controller remarked, "If you desire it I will telegraph him to come." Mr. Baker said, "Do so, if you please." On the morning of the 12th of December, 1874, he received a dispatch from Mr. Davis, saying, "Meet me at the Controller's office this afternoon about 2 o'clock." At 2 o'clock Mr. Baker was at the Controller's office. Mr. Davis admits that he came to the Controller's office upon this telegraphic summons; that he took a letter from him to the Attorney General, obtained his opinion, and received for it the sum of $1,000.

LAW REPORTS.

THE CLAFLIN SMUGGLING CASE.

FURTHER ARGUMENT FOR AND AGAINST QUASHING THE INDICTMENTS—DECISION RESERVED.

Assistant United States District Attorney Foster opened yesterday morning in the United States Circuit Court, before Judge Benedict, in reply to Hon. William M. Evarts, on the motion to quash the indictments against the firm of H. B. Claflin & Co.

In opening, Mr. Foster spoke at some length in regard to the nature of a motion to quash, remarking that in such cases it must be plainly apparent that in case of conviction no judgment could be rendered. The defects in the indictments must be gross and apparent. He then spoke of the general requirements of indictments, and pleaded that in this case they should not be held to such strict rules as to defeat the ends of justice. It was pleaded by the counsel for the defense that the indictments were worthless, as giving no particulars of crime, of ship, consignor, or consignee, and that in the maze of their great business, the defendants, without these, would find it impossible to designate any particular receipt of six cases of silk goods. But it was alleged by the Government that they well knew that the goods were smuggled, and they could easily identify them. H. B. Claflin and his associates were well known to the community both by words and deeds, but officially and judicially the accusation was to be considered as if against an unknown peddler, with his pack upon his back. They knew nothing of H. B. Claflin, only as a name in an indictment. Mr. Foster then cited a large number of authorities tending to prove that an indictment may be drawn in general terms and still meet all the requirements of the law without giving all information that might be required in the matter. In such cases it remained with the discretion of the court to grant a bill of particulars, but affidavit must first be made that from the general nature of the complaint they are unable to prepare adequate defense. The suggestion was made to the other counsel that this might have been their proper course. He submitted, then, that the question of further particulars was a matter left simply to the discretion of the court. Another objection, he understood, was that under section 3,082 the criminality referred only to smuggled goods, and he was willing to admit that the statute, speaking of importations contrary to law, did not refer to smuggled goods. And this was a charge against the defendants. In each of the three counts it was repeated that the goods had been smuggled and clandestinely introduced into the United States. Smuggling, according to the old English law, was bringing to and from any shore goods upon which the duties had not been paid. In the case against D. H. Thomas, cited by the defendant's counsel, nothing was said of smuggling, but of an attempt to defraud the revenue in the non-payment of duties. Defendant claimed that he had not been informed when, where, in whose hands, and by what means these goods first came into the market: that the primary evidence should be made known to him, as of the primary offender. In this case the primary offender was the smuggler; the secondary, the party who received and facilitated the sale of the goods. The analogy was made as to the receiver of stolen goods. An indictment in a case of this kind never furnished the particulars now claimed by the defendant. Legal authority, as well as reason, demonstrated that the secondary offender was not entitled to that information that would attach to an indictment against the primary offender. The fourth count was drawn in the exact language of the statute. In the generality of cases, it was sufficient to allege the offense in the very terms of the statute; particulars might sometimes be necessary, this alone to be decided by the court; but under the law, counsel contended that the present motion ought not to prevail. Mr. Foster concluded by stating that, according to the English law, general approval of the nature of the crime was all-sufficient.

Mr. Evarts followed. He said that the Claflins might buy goods of a smuggler, or in the interest of a smuggler, without knowing it. They might find it out afterward, and then might sell without criminality, although knowing the goods had been smuggled. With regard to the degree of certainty which is described as adequate to fall under the statute, there were always two points of discussion at common law one in respect to the certainty of the matter alleged having to do with the acts of the party, alleged to be criminal; the other, the certainty of assignment of criminality on these acts. Every citizen charged with crime had a right to a trial before a petit jury, and never to be tried by a petit jury until tried by a grand jury, the indictment to prove a record in the intermediate space of time, showing that the one was the same case brought before the other. It was alleged that the defendants knew the goods were smuggled, making them easy of identification, and that this consciousness was its own indictment. But supposing a man was innocent—and the law presumed him so until convicted—what was to be done then? There were four indictments against the defendants, drawn upon the same model, covering different offenses, and may have been found by different Grand Juries, and nothing in them to identify the defendants. Here is a constitutional overthrow, that a man should be tried on other evidence than that found in the indictment. If the assignment of information had been made, it would have been wholly unimpeachable under the statutes of the United States. What Government, with the first principles of justice, would ever undertake to say to England or the United States, whose boast and pride it was that their trade and commerce embraced all the opportunities that energy and capital could acquire, that possession of undervalued goods was sufficient to convict? Under the latitude of these indictments a person was to rest under the cloud of imputation until the District Attorney saw fit to open his mouth and make known the facts in the case. Under the Constitution no one was to be arraigned until a sworn Grand Jury should fully state in an indictment the facts against him. Give the defense these facts, and then it would be time to consider whether there was a place for this alleged secondary offender. The counsel still claimed that the indictments were worthless, as they contained nothing of information for the court or defendant in regard to the charge against him.

Judge Benedict reserved his decision.

THE OCEAN BANK ROBBERY.

TRIAL CONTINUED—TESTIMONY WITH REGARD TO THE INSECURITY OF THE BANK — SOME STARTLING EVIDENCE PROMISED.

The trial of the case of Samuel M. Archer against the Ocean National Bank was resumed yesterday in the United States Circuit Court, jury branch, before Judge Wallace. None of the papers in the suit have as yet found their way into the court-room, and thus far it has been impossible to gain a full list of the Directors of the bank at the time of the robbery. Mr. Norris, in answer to the request for this list, said that he could not then remember their names, and Mr. Bangs, counsel for the defense, said he did not think it proper in their publication to impugn the characters of the Directors of a responsible bank.

The first witness called was Edgar E. Halley, who was on the stand a short time on Thursday. The witness is an insurance agent, and formerly had his office in the basement of the bank building. He testified that he was in the vaults of the bank some time before its robbery in 1869 with Mr. Martin, President, and Mr. Stevenson, Cashier, and the former remarked their strength, saying to them that no burglar could enter there. In reply he said that with their present appliances burglars could force the locks as easily as a person could force his finger through a piece of paper, and he further suggested that for the safety of the depositors a night watchman should be engaged. Mr. Martin thought one would be useless—the bank would be as safe without as with a watchman. In answer to the question of Mr. Martin as to whether he could suggest a good man for watchman, the witness named one Detective Murphy, who he said could be engaged for that purpose at $1,200 per year. He recommended no one else. Some time before the robbery he told Mr. Martin that he was about to move, and that he must look out for the entire premises. Early in 1868 Mr. Martin came to the witness and stated that he had discovered a man in the water-closet of the bank, and who had escaped, leaving a jimmy behind. Witness then spoke to Mr. Martin of the gambling establishment adjoining the bank on the Greenwich street side, and of the facility with which burglars could pass from there to the bank.

A long cross-examination followed by F. N. Bangs, of counsel for the defendants, but it failed to elicit further matter of importance. The witness stated that there was no means of getting from the basement of the building to the bank offices except through the floors, which were about two feet thick. The vaults of the bank were lined with boiler iron. There were police patrols both on the Greenwich street and Fulton street sides, and no one could get in through the windows of the bank without observation either by day or night. He did not have any individual deposits in the bank, but transacted business with it while the insurance company had its office in the building, during nineteen years. Nothing was stolen from the building during that time. Mr. Bangs questioned the witness at some length in regard to his personal habits, but without proving anything calculated to throw discredit on his testimony. The witness further stated that he recommended Murphy as a night watchman, not only because they were friends, but because he desired to see the bank property better protected, but Mr. Martin expressed the opinion that the appointment would be useless. In answer to a question, he said he could not name any bank in a City that employed a night watchman.

William G. Phillips was the next witness called. He testified that in 1869 he was Sergeant of the Twenty-seventh Precinct, which included the Ocean National Bank, and he was on duty the night that it was robbed; he saw Mr. Stevenson about a month before the robbery, and told him he thought the bank was comparatively unprotected; Mr. Stevenson replied by referring him to Mr. Martin, the President; he saw the latter about a week afterward and made a similar remark to him, adding that he had seen "Dutch" Heinrichs and other suspicious characters around the bank, and recommended Richard Doughty as a good watchman; Mr. Martin said he did not think any such action was necessary, but would see the witness again in regard to it; at another time he warned Mr. Martin that Peter Grant, the janitor, was an improper person for the trust, as he had seen him coming out of the building one Sunday morning in an intoxicated condition, and, beyond this, his associates were bad; on still another occasion he had warned Mr. Stevenson that there was danger of the bank being robbed.

On cross-examination the witness testified that the bank was robbed on Sunday night, the burglars effecting an entrance through the floor. The robbery was not discovered until Monday morning. His suspicions of the danger of robbery had passed away some time before it occurred. He denied that he had ever told Mr. Martin that the bank could be robbed by a certain person, and at a certain time. The cross-examination was very long, but nothing further of interest was elicited.

Joseph D. Martin testified that he was porter in the Ocean National Bank at the time of the robbery, and at present occupied a similar position in the Shoe and Leather National Bank. His testimony in the main was in corroboration of that of the previous witnesses, especially in regard to the man discovered in the water-closet. He stated that he informed the President, Mr. Martin, that he had seen suspicious characters prowling around the bank, and was told to inform an officer of the fact.

The time for adjournment having now arrived, the further examination was adjourned until Monday. It is promised that testimony will be given during the coming week of unusual interest. Among those who were Directors of the bank at and before the time of its failure and robbery were A. A. Martin, Columbus S. Stevenson, D. R. Martin, (President,) Jonathan R. Edwards, (now deceased,) D. N. Wagstaff, and James E. Hedges.

THE BEECHER SCANDAL.

THE CRIMINAL PROSECUTIONS INSTITUTED BY MR. BEECHER AGAINST THEODORE TILTON AND FRANCIS D. MOULTON ABANDONED.

In the City Court of Brooklyn, yesterday, Judge Neilson presiding, District Attorney Britton moved to enter a nolle prosequi to each of the indictments found by the Grand Jury, at the instance of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, for libel, against Theodore Tilton and Francis D. Moulton. Mr. Britton said:

If the court please, it has been my practice while performing the duties of District Attorney of this county, whenever there was an indictment pending the trial of which would for any cause most surely not result in a conviction, nor in any public benefit, to move for a nolle in the case. This practice is founded on a principle which I believe to be manifestly just, and without exception in its application. The facts invoking it being clearly established, whether the accused desires that he shall be so tried can have no legitimate influence upon a District Attorney, representing not individual interests, but those of the aggregate people. They, the accused and the accuser, may be only considered in enabling the District Attorney to arrive at a just conclusion as to his duty in the premises. Prompted exclusively by these sentiments, I move that a nolle prosequi be entered in the case of the People against Moulton, which is an indictment for an alleged libel against Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. It is just to the accused that I should say to this court that he has demanded from me a trial of this case and has founded such demand upon alleged injustice to be done him by the people should they, after indicting him, decline to proceed to trial, whereby he might be enabled to vindicate himself from the charge. It is the duty of the District Attorney, as I understand it, to prosecute those whom the interests of the people demand should be prosecuted for the punishment of crime through conviction, and acceding to any demand for trial on the theory claimed by the accused would be entirely demoralizing to the administration of justice, so far as relates to the office of District Attorney. Any person deeming himself unjustly charged in an indictment, it seems to me, must find his reparation from the people in the voluntary motion by the proper officer representing them, and in the action of the court thereon, in causing an entry upon the record of a nolle prosequi in the case, thereby furnishing permanent evidence of the abandonment by them of the prosecution under the indictment. This is my deliberate judgment after a long and careful consideration, and I present these views to the court for such action as it may deem proper, either in approval or disapproval thereof. Should the court entertain a different view, I am prepared to adopt and act on its superior judgment.

Judge Neilson—The motion is granted, and I think it proper to say, recognizing that the questions involved in such cases rest largely in the judgment and discretion of the prosecutor representing the people, that in this case the views expressed and the course proposed by the District Attorney are proper, and commend themselves to our judgment as a fair and just exercise of the discretion necessarily vested in him. The Clerk will make the proper entry.

Mr. Britton—I make a similar motion in the case of the People against Moulton for alleged libel against a lady of this community.

Judge Neilson—That motion is also granted.

Mr. Britton—I have still another motion of the same kind in the case of the People against Tilton for alleged libel against Rev. Henry Ward Beecher.

Judge Neilson—That motion is granted likewise.

THE M'MURRAY HOMICIDE CASE.

CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER IN THE THIRD DEGREE—SENTENCED TO FOUR YEARS' IMPRISONMENT.

Simon McMurray was placed on trial yesterday, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, before Judge Barrett, on an indictment charging him, jointly with his wife, Anne Jane, with having murdered William Doyle, on the night of the 22d of last August, at the residence of the accused, No. 494 Greenwich street, by stabbing him in the neck. The accused elected to take separate trials, the husband to be tried first. The evidence for the prosecution was to the effect that McMurray and Doyle quarreled in the hallway of the house, and that McMurray and his wife were drunk; that the woman called to her husband to kill Doyle, and was told by him to go up stairs and get a knife off his bed; that she did so, and gave the knife to her husband, who plunged it into Doyle's neck, inflicting a wound two inches in depth and an inch in width, which penetrated the glottis and caused inflammation, resulting in Doyle's death by suffocation; that McMurray made two other passes at Doyle, cutting him slightly on the right side of the nose and on the right hand, and that McMurray also cut his own hand severely on account of the knife slipping.

The defendant testified that Doyle and another man intruded themselves into a place where defendant's infant child was sleeping, and that one of them lay down on it, fatally injuring it; that they did not live in the house, and had no business there; that McMurray sought to eject them from the house, and was cut by Doyle twice on the hands; that Doyle tried to get into the apartments of the accused, using force for that purpose, and that it was not till then that he cut at Doyle in self-defense, and without any intent to kill him, and then ejected him from the house and barred the door to prevent his return. Evidence was given of McMurray's good character, and was not contradicted.

The jury retired at 5:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon and returned at 6:40 o'clock, with a verdict of manslaughter in the third degree.

The court, in passing sentence, said that McMurray doubtless would not have been in his position had it not been for his use of intoxicating liquors. He then sentenced him to four years' imprisonment at hard labor, and discharged his wife.

THE STATEN ISLAND FERRY.

In an action begun some time ago in the name of the City of New-York against the Staten Island Ferry Company to restrain the continuance of the ferry, on the ground that the City had never granted it a franchise, Judge Van Vorst, in the Special Term of the Supreme Court, granted the injunction sued for. Mr. William H. Pendleton, the President of the Staten Island Ferry Company, and who is also President of the North Shore Ferry Company, obtained the transfer to him of the boat of the Staten Island Ferry Company and ran it from the pier of the North Shore Company, in this City to the landing of the Staten Island Ferry Company on Staten Island. This fact was brought to the attention of Judge Spier, who held that the running of the boat in this manner was an evasion of the injunction amounting to a contempt of court by both of the companies and Pendleton, and he fined each of the companies and Pendleton $250, and directed Pendleton's imprisonment for thirty days.

THE CALLAHAN MATRICIDE.

In the case in which Thomas Callahan was indicted for the murder of his mother Mary, counsel summed up yesterday morning in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, and Judge Barrett charged the jury that they could not, on the evidence, find a verdict of murder in the first degree, but he declined to charge, as requested by Callahan's counsel, that the jury could find a verdict for assault and battery. The jury retired at 12:30 yesterday afternoon, and Callahan and a married sister sat in a corner of the court-room weeping and anxiously waiting the result of the jurors' deliberations. At 1:45 the jury returned with a verdict of manslaughter in the second degree. Callahan, in answer to the usual questions, said he had nothing to say why sentence should not be passed upon him, and Judge Barrett, after saying that the verdict of the jury fully coincided with his views of the case, sentenced Callahan to seven years' imprisonment at hard labor, the highest penalty affixed to the crime of which he had been found guilty.

THE WILKES LIBEL SUIT.

CROSS-EXAMINATION OF MR. LATHAM—AN ADJOURNMENT FOR TWO WEEKS.

The criminal prosecution of George Wilkes for the alleged libel of Mr. William Latham was resumed before Judge Bixby yesterday at his rooms, No. 23 Park row. The entire day was occupied in the cross-examination of Mr. Latham, whose direct testimony was given last Tuesday, and in the introduction of witnesses for the defense. The particulars of the case have heretofore been made public. Mr. Latham admitted that when he asked the Cashier for a loan, or rather an advance of his salary, he had just left Mr. Wilkes, and that he said to the Cashier, "It's all right." The Cashier in his testimony said the plaintiff at the same time nodded his head in the direction of Mr. Wilkes when he said "All right." What was meant by "all right" the Cashier could not tell. No previous conversation had occurred between him and Mr. Latham, but his impression was that Mr. Wilkes had authorized the advance, and he handed over the money. Another witness, McManus by name, testified that Latham sold a copy of The Turf Record, a book published by Mr. Wilkes, and the property of that gentleman, for $1, and that he placed the money in his private drawer. The witness waited four hours, and when he found that Latham had not reported the sale he related the transaction to the cashier. This testimony, so far as the sale of the book was concerned, was corroborated by the foreman of the printing-office, who witnessed the transaction. The rest of the testimony elicited yesterday was mostly concerning the engagement of Mr. Latham on the Spirit of the Times at a salary of $10 per week, of its being subsequently advanced to $30, and some other details not of interest. The investigation was then adjourned for two weeks.

A MURDEROUS WORKMAN.

Stephen Molley, a French blacksmith, residing at Sixty-ninth street and Eigth avenue, was placed on trial yesterday before Judge Sutherland in General Sessions, charged with shooting at John Smith, foreman of a gang of stone-cutters and masons in Central Park. It appeared that on the 13th of September, Molley presented to Foreman Smith a ticket of the Park Department authorizing the employment of the bearer as a stone-cutter. Smith set the applicant to work; but finding that he had no knowledge whatever of stone-cutting, suspended him after he had worked a day and five hours, reporting him to the Superintendent as inefficient. Molley felt very much annoyed at his dismissal, and in speaking of the matter to some of the workmen, said that he would shoot Smith. On the following Saturday, Molley, in accordance with his expressed intention, went to the works at Seventy-ninth street, in Central Park, and seizing Smith by the coat-collar, drew a murderous-looking rifle-barreled pistol and fired. The shot took effect in Smith's left arm, passing completely through the limb and entering the left side of the body; but its further progress was providentially impeded by a leather truss worn by Smith, through which a hole was made. Molley was then arrested and subsequently indicted for felonious assault with intent to kill. The prisoner yesterday took the stand in his own defense, and after giving his version of the shooting, admitted in answer to the severe cross-questioning of Assistant District Attorney Bell, that he was not a stone-cutter, but a blacksmith, in which capacity he had worked on the Central Park Works the previous Winter. He had been sent to work as a stone-cutter on the understanding with the Park Commissioner from whom he had received his ticket, that he was to be transferred to the blacksmith's shop as soon as a vacancy should occur. The prisoner boldly admitted having shot at Smith, and said he thought he was justified in attempting the life of the man who had prevented him from earning his bread. The jury found the prisoner guilty, and Judge Sutherland sentenced him to ten years in State Prison at hard labor.

AN IMPUDENT THEFT.

Mr. Isaac T. Brown and family live at No. 21 West One Hundred and Thirtieth street, and usually go the country in the warm weather. Last Summer the family, as customary, locked up the house and remained away until September, when Mrs. Brown visited the City preparatory to returning for the season, and purchased a quantity of new furniture, including a handsome parlor set covered with blue satin, and valued at $1,800. After arranging the furniture and making other necessary preparations, Mrs. Brown again locked up the house, and returned with her whole family a few days after. It was then discovered that the house had been broken into, and the parlor set taken off bodily. Inquiries in the locality elicited the fact that on the 19th of September three men drove up in a wagon to the residence of Mr. Brown, and after removing a load of parlor furniture, drove off with it. The operations of the thieves were performed in a manner calculated to disarm suspicion, and nobody dreamed of interfering with them. A Police officer subsequently arrested a man named Henry Leslie, in whose possession a portion of the stolen furniture was found. On being called up for trial in the Court of General Sessions, yesterday, Leslie pleaded guilty, and was sentenced by Judge Sutherland to five years in State Prison.

DUNCAN, SHERMAN & CO.

Suit has been brought in the Supreme Court by Sigmund Badeau, a depositor in the banking-house of Duncan, Sherman & Co., to recover $3,938 86, the amount of his deposit, which he alleges is wrongfully withheld from him by the defendants. Ex-Judge Cadozo and R. S. Newcombe, Badeau's counsel, applied to Judge Curtis, in the Supreme Court, yesterday, for an attachment against the property in the hands of the Assignee, to await the issue of the suit, alleging that the assignment was made with fraudulent intent, and is, therefore, void. The application was granted.

THE WATSON CASE.

The Hon. Murray Hoffarn, Referee in the case of the People against the Estate of the late James Watson, concludes his opinion as follows:

"It is proven that the said Watson, the County Auditor, knew, participated in, and personally aided in this fraud. It is shown that his personal act in authenticating the bills on which the warrants were drawn was necessary, and that it was done. Under such circumstances I have no doubt that justice and law both demand that he be made responsible for the whole amount of the robbery; not merely for the proportion of the plunder which came to his own personal use."

NATURALIZING CITIZENS.

The manufacture of voters for the ensuing election has kept the Superior Court and the Court of Common Pleas very busy during the last week. Most of those naturalized were hard looking men, brought over from the Tammany Naturalization Committee's Head-quarters in squads, under the guidance of men who appeared experts in the art of giving all necessary coaching to the candidates for citizenship. Yesterday was the last day for naturalization for political purposes at the coming election, as no one naturalized within ten days of an election is eligible to vote. Since the 1st inst., 2,080 have been naturalized in the Superior Court, and 1,502 in the Court of Common Pleas.

DISGUSTED BURGLARS.

On Thursday night a gang of burglars effected an entrance into the coal office of John O'Brien, at One Hundred and Fifteenth street and First avenue, and cut a large hole through the side of the safe. They then discovered that the safe contained papers of no value to the thieves, and, further, that the safe was not locked. In their chagrin, the thieves hauled the papers out of the safe and scattered them about the office.

THE PRINCETON REGATTA.

The Fall regatta of the Princeton Navy will take place from the 26th to the 30th of October. Partly from necessity and partly to attempt the style of racing so successful in England, they have inaugurated in Princeton a series of bumping races. Crews from each class will participate. There will be also a single scull and other races. The regatta will be governed by the English rules for bumping races, adapted to American colleges by an old University oar.

FRIDAY, Oct. 22—P. M.

The business at the Stock Exchange to-day was larger than on any day for months, the transactions amounting to 350,000 shares, of which 115,000 were in Pacific Mail, 72,000 in Lake Shore, 72,000 in Western Union, and 31,000 in Erie. The market was strong and buoyant, and prices in the final dealings showed an advance, as compared with the closing quotations of yesterday, of ½ to 2 ₩ cent. Pacific Mail, under large purchases, advanced from 39⅜ to 41½, and after some fluctuations closed at 41¼@41⅜. Lake Shore rose to 61⅜, Michigan Central to 60¼, North-western to 37⅝ and the preferred to 52, St. Paul to 35⅜ and the preferred to 63½, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western to 118¼, and New-Jersey Central to 106, and Erie to 17½. The reaction in these stocks from the highest quotations was in most instances only fractional. Union Pacific declined to 66¼ and closed at 66½. Illinois Central was weak and fell off from 92 to 89 on a dispatch from Washington that "in the case of the Illinois Central Railway the Commissioner of Internal Revenue decides that the revenue received from the sale of subsidy lands when they have been sold on time is taxable as earnings of the road. The amount in question on which the Government claims tax is over $600,000." Missouri Pacific exhibited still further weakness, declining to 9½, and closing at the lowest point.

The Directors of the Pacific Mail Steam-ship Company held a meeting to-day and authorized the Vice President to ratify the contract with the Japanese company for the sale of the side-wheel wooden steamers. It was reported that a statement was submitted at the meeting showing the financial affairs of the company to be in good condition, but the figures of the statement did not transpire. We learn, however, that a cable message had been received to the effect that the Japanese company had paid the first installment of $150,000 of the purchase money of the steamers. Vice President Scott sails to-morrow for Europe, with the view, it is added, of taking action in regard to the proposal said to have been made by Mr. Stockwell for a settlement of the company's claims against him.

The money market was well supplied with loanable funds, although the demand from Stock Exchange borrowers was somewhat larger than usual. Call loans were done at 3½@4 ₩ cent. until near the close of bank hours, when there were offerings at 3 ₩ cent. The bank statement to-morrow ought to show a considerable gain in specie, and will probably reflect the further movement of currency to the West and South. Discounts are firm, with very little business in prime paper below 6½@7 ₩ cent. The amount of national bank notes received at Washington for redemption to-day was $540,000.

The foreign advices reported a withdrawal of £40,000 sterling from the Bank of England on balance to-day, and the rate for money at the London Stock Exchange on Government securities at 2 ₩ cent. Consols were firmer, and closed at 94¼@94⅜ for both money and the account. United States bonds were without important change, old 1865s closing at 103½@103⅝, 1867s at 107¼@107½, 10-40s at 104½@104¾. Erie advanced to 15⅜@15½ for the common and to 32¾ for the preferred. Sterling exchange was firm and higher. The opening rates were $4 77½ for bankers' long, and $4 82 for demand sterling, but they were quickly advanced to $4 79 and $4 83½ on the decline in gold and the easier rates for use. The advance, however, served to check business, which was at $4 78@$4 78½, and $4 82½@$4 83. Gold opened at 116⅛, and before mid-day had declined to 115½. The influences tending to weaken the premium have also encouraged a fresh "short" interest, which, with the small stock of gold in the banks, renders the future course of the market very uncertain. Cash gold loaned at 3-64 to 1-64 per diem, 3 ₩ cent. per annum, and flat. The receipts of gold from California during the past two days are reported at nearly $700,000.

Government bonds were again lower, in sympathy with gold, the transactions showing an increase over yesterday. In railroad mortgages Union Pacifics were firm, Land Grants selling at 98½@99, against 98 at the close on Thursday. Central Pacifics declined to 105⅜, Toledo and Wabash Firsts to 80½, and Ohio and Mississippi Seconds to 64. Boston and New-York Air-line Firsts sold at 101⅝. State bonds were quiet. District of Columbia 3.65s advanced to 68. Tennessees were lower, selling at 46 for new and at 45½ for new series.

The imports of dry goods at this port for the week ending to-day were $1,418,410, and the amount marketed $1,359,342. The total imports of dry goods at the port since Jan. 1 were $89,785,144, and the total amount marketed $89,899,998.

WORK OF THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Trustees of the Children's Aid Society, at No. 19 East Fourth street, reports from the different institutions under the care of the society were received, showing a very satisfactory Summer's work among the poor children of the City. At the Newsboys' Lodging-house, No. 9 Duane street, 33,412 lodgings and 25,491 meals had been furnished during the Summer; the nightly average attendance had been 217. At the Girls' Lodging-house, No. 27 St. Marks place, 32 girls (average) had been nightly lodged, (4,513 lodgings) 10,582 meals had been furnished, and over 100 girls had been provided with employment and places, besides 300 girls taught in the machine school. The Eleventh Ward Lodging-house, No. 709 East Eleventh street, furnished 7,626 lodgings and 6,661 meals. Nightly average attendance 31. The Sixteenth Ward Lodging-house, No. 211 West Eighteenth street had a nightly average attendance of 63, and furnished 9,653 lodgings. The Rivington Street Lodging-house furnished 12,002 lodgings and 17,869 meals, the nightly average attendance was 79.

Eleven companies, numbering 1,117 persons, (mostly homeless boys and girls) were sent West and provided with homes or employment. Total number provided with places or work was 1,958. At the twenty-one industrial schools nearly 2,900 children attended daily, being supplied with meals and partly with clothing and shoes. The "Sea-side Home" at Bath, Long Island, had received 2,131 children during the Summer, (averaging 156 children per week,) who had enjoyed the advantage of this "pure air charity" at an expense of about $4,000. The "Sick Children's Fund" had relieved 3,268 children (of 936 families) with food, clothing, and medicine.

The society are about founding the Phelps Lodging-house for Boys, in East Thirty-fifth street, near First avenue, in a new building built by the Phelps Mission. The means for it have been in part furnished by a benevolent gentleman and lady. The society expect a heavy work in the coming Winter, as all signs show hard times at hand for the poor, while the business community are cramped for means. Their own treasury is low.

PACIFIC MAIL.

The Pacific Mail Directors held a meeting yesterday morning at No. 34 Broad street. It was reported in the street that a financial statement made by the Vice President, Mr. Scott, was submitted to the meeting; that it showed earnings at the rate of $2,000,000 per annum for the current year, and that putting the assets at even a low figure they were equal to fifty cents on the dollar. If such a statement was submitted every effort was made to keep it from the public. A TIMES reporter called upon Mr. Houston, Second Vice President of the company, who acted as Secretary to the meeting, and he assured him that no statement was presented to the meeting, that Mr. Scott was not present, and that the only business of importance transacted was the formal ratification of the sale of the Shanghai line of steamers. Mr. Scott will leave for Europe to-day.

MR. NIBLACK ON ECONOMY.

Hon. William E. Niblack addressed an agricultural society at Booneville, Ind., on Friday last, and is thus reported: "Congress may make things better for us, and may make them worse. It may make things easier, and it may make them harder but it cannot wipe out debts already created. It cannot make good the losses we have already sustained. It cannot put money in the pockets of those who will do nothing to save it themselves. More, after all, depends on the energy, industry, and sagacity of the people themselves than on any other power. Measures of relief can only be made available when the people heartily embrace them, and carry them out with energy and good will. Economy, industry, and careful management on the part of all classes are absolutely necessary for our future prosperity. We must have economy, too, on the part of the Government and in all city departments. Men of all political parties must concede that to be a necessity which admits of no delay. This may be felt as a tedious and trying process, but some such a policy is inevitable if we wish to avoid a loss of credit, if not general bankruptcy. I am glad, however, to know that this is a subject on which our people have already taken the hint. We are patching our old clothes and darning our stockings much more carefully than we did a few years ago. We are dressing generally also in much less expensive material than we did formerly. Very few people are as good customers at the neighboring stores as they were in times past. Our farmers, I am glad to say, are as much moved by a spirit of economy, in this respect, as any other class of people. They are running their old wagons a little longer than a few years ago. They are patching up their old plows and other implements a little more carefully than they did a little while ago. They are generally trying to make everything count and go as far as possible. This is as it should be, my friends. It is the surplus that counts in estimating our wealth. Capital is but the surplus which labor creates over and above all expenses. If we can only lay up a good surplus every year, our debts will melt away after a while, and we will soon again be a prosperous people in all our business relations."

ADVERTISEMENTS RECEIVED UNTIL 9 P. M.

A NEW POEM BY MR. ROBERT BROWNING.

We beg to announce that we have made arrangements with Mr. Robert Browning for the publication of a new poem from his pen. The date of its appearance in the columns of the Sunday edition of THE TIMES will shortly be announced.

Those of our citizens who have not yet registered will have their last opportunity to do so to-day. If they neglect it they will be unable to vote at the approaching election. In this City there can be no question as to the duty of the honest portion of the people. They are asked to turn over the Government of the City to JOHN KELLY—the successor, in every sense, of WILLIAM M. TWEED—and it is for them to say whether they will do what they are asked. KELLY will be entirely satisfied with negative support. Nothing would suit him better than to have decent men stay away from the polls, or neglect to register. One course serves his purpose just as well as the other. The places of registry are published in THE TIMES this morning. Let every one who wishes to give his vote for good City Government attend and register his name.

When the Beecher trial was in progress, much stress was laid by the defendant's friends upon the fact that he had brought actions for libel against TILTON and MOULTON. The inference intended to be drawn from such an announcement is that the person bringing the action is confident of his innocence. It was stated that Mr. MOULTON had fled in terror from the mere threat of this particular action; but when, one day, he returned to Brooklyn, and demanded of the District Attorney an immediate trial, the tune was changed, and he was accused of a wicked endeavor to revive an odious scandal. Yesterday District Attorney BRITTON moved to enter a nolle prosequi in each of the long-threatened actions for libel. Why? If TILTON'S story was false, surely he has libeled Mr. BEECHER most grossly. The same remark applies to MOULTON. Then, what induces Mr. BEECHER to withdraw his actions? According to his lawyers' statements, he has been foully calumniated and black-mailed. He undertook to prove this in a court of law. And yet, when it comes to the point, he retires from the field. It seems to us a very strange course to adopt. Supposing, however, that MOULTON has not libeled BEECHER, it is clear that BEECHER has libeled MOULTON, and we should recommend Mr. MOULTON to take proper measures to vindicate his character.

JOHN KELLY is another gentleman who proposes to make what capital he can for himself by threatening actions for libel. Certain distinct charges are brought against him—as, for instance, in regard to his swindling the public while Sheriff—and he puts in a general "denial of assertions," dodges the specific accusations, and says he will bring an action for libel against us after election. This the World calls a "complete answer" to all imputations on his character. In reality, as everybody can see, it is no answer at all. As for his action, we desire nothing better than to get JOHN KELLY in a witness-box. We may then be able to extract from him a great deal of information which other people seem afraid just now to give. If he can explain, to the satisfaction of a fair jury, his manipulation of Sheriff's fees, we must abide the consequences. But at present we accuse him of having willfully defrauded the people of New-York, and of being an utterly unfit man to hold any power in this City. The Boss can make this the subject of another action for libel as soon as he thinks proper.

Messrs. J. H. and C. W. GOODSELL have found such a "good thing" in the insurance companies, which have so long tamely submitted to their exactions, that we should have thought they might have been satisfied with their profits. It would have been well for them if they had rested content with charging these companies at the rate of $2,500 for each article inserted in their precious paper, the Spectator, the amount they seem to have levied on the old Knickerbocker Company. Witness the following receipt:

New-York, May 19, 1871.

Knickerbocker Life Insurance Company, Dr.:

To personal services to date, and to the articles entitled "The Thug Warfare in Life Insurance," and "The Vindication of the Knickerbocker Company," $5,000. Received payment,

J. H. & C. W. GOODSELL.

This "placer," however, rich as it appears to have been, does not satisfy the GOODSELL'S, and now they are making a new strike. This time they appear to have singled out JAY GOULD. Notices have appeared in their paper, the Graphic, of that peculiar kind which are generally understood to be a demand to "step up to the Captain's office and settle." The longer the invitation is resisted, the more furious become the virtuous GOODSELLS. Whatever allegations may be brought against Mr. GOULD, we are not aware that he has yet been convicted of signing his name to a black-mailing receipt, although we should not be at all surprised to learn that he has a good many such receipts in his possession signed by others. We only wish he would turn some of them over to us, when we have no doubt that very curious revelations would be made. Of one thing there is no doubt—that JAY GOULD is a much more decent man in every way than either J. H. or C. W. GOODSELL, and that we expect to be able to prove, at least in a negative way, before very long. In the meantime, we once more advise the Centennial Commission to pay no more money for vile engravings in the Graphic, unless it wishes to forfeit the support of every respectable newspaper in New-York.

When Gov. TILDEN sends the next portrait of himself to his "illustrated paper," we again advise him to put on a few more clothes. It is a new feature in our political life to find candidates depicting themselves in the costume of our first parents. We do not believe that Gov. TILDEN is so beautiful as to justify this free revelation of his charms, and an accurate representation of his legs would not be likely to attract many votes. Let him, then, draw his next portrait in the garb which all decent men wear at the present day. We believe he boasts that he is lineally descended from an ancient Briton, but that is no reason why he should revert to the too scanty attire of his ancestor. Degraded as our politics may be, we expect our candidates for office to appear in public with some better protection against the weather than a fig leaf.

The eighth report of the Canal Investigating Commission is given to the public. It is directed mainly to the examination of the processes by which the Commissioners allege that claimants against the State were compelled to sell their claims at a heavy discount or to pay money to advance their settlement. So far as the Commissioners' charges against the Controller and the Auditor of the Canal Department are concerned, it is but fair to these gentlemen to say that their reputation is quite as high as that of their accusers, and that the public confidence in them will not yield to the assertions of the commission, unless they fail to fairly explain these assertions. Meanwhile, it is obviously unfortunate that whatever force the reports of the Commission may have had will be weakened by the fact that two of their authors are political candidates whose election is to be promoted by their official action. These reports are now open to the suspicion of being electioneering documents, and the Commissioners—and the Governor—have only themselves to thank if this is the view too generally taken.

We hope that the meeting in aid of municipal reform, which will be held in the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, to-night, will be attended by a large portion of the respectable people of that city. It has been called by some of the best citizens of Brooklyn, many of them Democrats. It will be addressed by men who know what they are talking about, and particularly by Gen. SLOCUM, who will describe some features of the Brooklyn Ring in a way which no one can mistake; and a true picture of that Ring should be extremely interesting to the tax-payers. An extended report of the proceedings will be published in THE TIMES to-morrow.

THE PARTY OF ELASTIC PRINCIPLES.

The issues of the State and local campaign all turn upon this single question, "which of the two political parties can be most safely trusted to carry out the work of administrative reform which is conceded on all sides to be urgently required?" Senator CONKLING'S speech at the Cooper Union last night was mainly devoted to showing that in the light of past experience it would be sheer folly to place any confidence in the sincerity of the Democratic professions on the subject of reform. To make this kind of argument effective, it is, of course, necessary to show that the party which so grossly plundered the City and State between 1868 and 1871 is in all essential respects identical with the party which is claiming the suffrages of the people now. Otherwise, all reference to the load of corruption under which the New-York Democracy went down a few years ago will be answered by pointing to "Reformed" Tammany in the City and the new era of TILDEN and Reform in State politics.

If the whole complexion and character of the Democratic Party of this City and State have changed since the heyday of its prosperity and its crimes, there must be some time at which it could be said that "here corrupt influences were shaken off, and a period of honesty and purity began." The leaders of the party seem to have agreed that the most convenient date from which to commence the history of the new and improved Democracy is October, 1871, and that the place where it had its birth was the Rochester Convention. The selection, as Senator CONKLING shows, is decidedly unfortunate. It is perfectly well known that the Rochester Convention was "captured" by TWEED—a fact to which the streets of Rochester bore witness on the evening of Oct. 4, 1871. It is matter of record that among the most prominent names at that convention were those of men who have since been identified with canal frauds, and that the ticket nominated there comprised the names of WILLERS, BRISTOL, CHAMPLAIN, RICHMOND, and CHAPMAN, whose votes in the Canal Board sustained some of the most flagrant jobs which the Investigating Commission are now engaged in exposing. More than this, the very man who is now using the exposure of the past mismanagement of the canals for the purpose of making political capital for himself, assisted at that same convention in drafting the following resolution: "Resolved, That the Democracy of the State, to sustain their confident claim on the suffrages of the people, point to the results of their administration during the brief term that power and responsibility of legislation have been in their hands. They have rescued the canals from the ruin to which a reckless and improvident system of repair contracts had exposed them; they have restored them to the highest efficiency, and at the same time reduced the expense and lowered the tolls," &c.

SAMUEL J. TILDEN and FRANCIS KERNAN, the chief representatives at Rochester of the new era of Democratic reform, helped to prepare this resolution. Taken in connection with the fulsome laudation of JOHN T. HOFFMAN which followed it, the resolution embraced within its comprehensive scope an approval of every swindling tax levy of TWEED and SWEENY, and every fraudulent contract or award by which the State was robbed in the worst days of canal plunder. The sole contribution made by the Rochester Convention to the cause of reform was a mild censure of the men who stood openly convicted of robbing this City of millions of dollars, but lest that should prove too strong for the party digestion, it was accompanied by the charge that the Republican Party was responsible for the robberies of the Ring. No wonder that TWEED left the convention attended by the general congratulations of his friends, and that Senator JARVIS LORD found much satisfaction in proposing the final vote of thanks to the presiding officer of this remarkable gathering.

At the Fall election of 1871, the voting masses of the Democratic Party followed the example set them by their leaders. They sustained the representatives of a régime of corruption and fraud, who had been renominated by the party managers, and they indorsed the unbroken continuity of party responsibility which had been affirmed at the convention. The 83,000 Democratic votes polled in this City in November, 1871, for the Tweed State ticket showed that Mr. TILDEN and his party were perfectly at one in preferring dishonorable associations to the risk of defeat. In 1871, Mr. TILDEN was found working side by side with canal thieves, whitewashing their frauds in laudatory resolutions, and bending all his efforts to secure the election of State officers notoriously in their interest. In 1875, he is found posing before the people as the only man who can be trusted to punish fraudulent contractors and their official abettors. Mr. TILDEN was either egregiously deceived in 1871 about the character of his associates or he was consciously working in the interests of corruption. On either theory, it is quite clear that his reforming zeal stands greatly in need of the stimulus and direction likely to be supplied by Republican associates.

It would be decidedly unwise to rely exclusively on recent converts to the cause of reform in the battle which must be waged here as elsewhere in favor of purer and better methods of administration. What Gov. TILDEN has done we know, but it would be rash to assume that Mr. LUCIUS ROBINSON, his colleague on the Committee on Resolutions at Rochester, is certain to bring forth fruits meet for repentance. He has been a tolerably consistent Democrat during the last ten years, and was never known to object to a convention being compelled to do the bidding of TWEED. The head of the ticket on which Mr. ROBINSON stands nominated for Controller has been consistent in nothing, and, so far, has the advantage of some of his associates. But it would puzzle any man of character and intelligence to assign a single good reason for preferring Mr. BIGELOW to Mr. FREDERICK SEWARD. The latter has worthily borne a name which the people of New-York cherish with just pride, and he would carry into the position of Secretary of State the influence of a thorough training in the details of public business, as well as a reputation without flaw. In regard to a ticket like that headed by Mr. SEWARD, the practical counsel given by Senator CONKLING has a special appropriateness: "A man must be stone-blind who does not see that it will be a good thing to put some Republicans in the Canal Board now, and let them and the Democrats who will still be there, and the Governor, all watch each other."

POLITICAL INSURANCE.

Our citizens insure themselves against losses by fire, shipwreck, lightning, and accidents. They insure their lives for the benefit of creditors and relatives. The required premiums are cheerfully paid in hard cash, and, being so paid, they live or sleep in calm security. But there is another insurance which can be more cheaply obtained. All the premiums required are time and vigilance. Time to go and register; vigilance on election day. And these will insure the citizen against injuries to his business, his property, and his person. In Ohio the premiums paid by the voters in attending mass meetings at which the Allen heresies and the Cary hypocrisies were exposed, and in bringing out the earnest vote of the Buckeye State, resulted in the electors obtaining a two years' insurance against misrule and chattering humbug.

We all appreciate in a national sense how invaluable was the insurance money spent for the Union during the war. For all time to come, our existence as a united people has been assured. Now, again, our Empire State voters possess opportunity to obtain new assurance against the Tilden shams and the Kelly effronteries. This is the last day upon which the first and necessary installment for this premium of time and vigilance can be paid. He who would insure his political honor and his security of limb and pocket must register his vote to-day. Next Tuesday week he can pay his last installment of premium by voting for the tickets headed by SEWARD and HACKETT.

Indeed, this insurance becomes more important to millionaire or tenement lodger than insurance of furniture or merchandise. Because if SAM TILDEN can own our Legislature, our Attorney General, and our Controller, as he asserts he will; and if JOHN KELLY can own our Judges and possess himself of the machinery of the Police, the criminal courts, the Fire Department, and the jury box, then insurances of property are weakened if not destroyed. Under the old régime this kind of ownership was distributed. One contributed supervisorship of brains, another of ornate guardianship, a third of cunning, a fourth of diplomatic dictation, and so on through the personnel of the Ring. But all the probable ownership of our criminal courts and Police is now sought to be concentrated in one man and he a man of the most unscrupulous kind. When the culprits of the Ring fell out under the jealousies inspired by THE TIMES, honest men got some due (little enough as it has turned out, yet something,) of good government. They obtained a vigilant and plucky Controller, an experienced and faithful manager of the parks, and a fair Fire Department. But there will be no danger of JOHN KELLY quarreling with himself, so that reform can come in such method again. He is a vain, conceited blusterer. For years he was in politics what Fra Diavolo became in the Mountains of Terracina. Already has he accomplished a task that the old Ring sometimes failed in. He has captured the World newspaper, and wears the brains of its editor at his Sachem belt, just as he wears there the soul of "TOM" DUNLAP of the jury box.

By registration to-day, and voting upon Nov. 2, we can all insure ourselves against Tammany fire and insurrections. Votes for HACKETT and PHELPS will be better premiums to pay for household and business security than cash given to insurance companies. Every man who has forgetfully permitted his fire or life premiums to lie over even a night beyond the quarter day can remember his regret. How much greater must be that of the honest elector who, on Sunday, may unfortunately remember that by not registering to-day, he has imperiled his life and property for years to come.

TOWNS ON STILTS.

Just at present Long Island City presents a curious spectacle. Its inhabitants, becoming tired of living in a swamp, are raising the grade of their streets, so that heavy rain-falls can be induced to retire by way of the sewers, instead of taking up prolonged residence in cellars and the lower floors of basement houses. The consequence is that vast ramparts of earth are making their appearance in the middle of the streets, as if they were thrown up to protect the sidewalks from an enemy's shot. Vagabond locomotives lounge about the town, whistling idly to themselves, and troops of dissolute-looking dirt-cars are perpetually on the point of starting out on extemporized tracks into the suburbs, under pretext of looking for work, or are returning from such excursions in a more muddy and disreputable condition than ever. Many of the houses are struggling up from behind the street embankment toward the light, and the piles on which they rest remind one of the feeble stalks that are developed by accidental potato vines or celery plants that undertake a surreptitious growth in cellars, and reach vain tendrils toward the glimmering windows. Other houses are straggling off in search of better localities, and the belated wayfarer is liable to be shocked by the sight of a dissipated Methodist meeting-house which is spending the night in the gutter, or an intoxicated grocer's shop which has stretched itself in the middle of the street, and put off until morning the attempt to stagger toward its proper corner. The whole city is undergoing a sort of combined municipal moving and house-cleaning, and when the inhabitants reflect that this prolonged discomfort must be paid for by heavy taxation, they may very naturally ask themselves if it would not have been better to bear the chills they have than to fly to piles and embankments the cost whereof no man can estimate.

Long Island City is passing through the same experience which Chicago and many other towns have already undergone, and which scores of American cities and villages have yet to undergo. The malarious diseases which desolate so many of our towns are due, in very many instances, to the fact that the towns are situated in localities where drainage is impossible. They thus become the nurseries of fever, and the more thickly they become inhabited, the more appalling is their death-rate. To abandon them, and thus destroy the capital which has been invested in them, is impracticable. The only remaining remedy is that of raising their level to a height sufficient to admit of a thorough system of drainage. It requires courage to undertake so costly a work, but in the end it pays. Chicago made sure of its future when it raised its grade, and Long Island City permanently secures its position as the terminus of the Long Island railways by the measure which for the present entails so much discomfort and such burdensome taxation.

The rapid and unparalleled growth of the population of the United States will necessarily lead to the constant building of new towns and settlements for a century to come. We ought to learn from experience the folly of building on the low banks of rivers, or in valleys where water collects beneath the surface and cannot be drawn off. In all the Western States and Territories, a little wise forethought will save the expense of raising whole towns, and thus temporarily swallowing up their value in taxation. It is not impossible to make the matter a subject of efficient legislation. If the State has the right to make any sanitary regulations whatever, it assuredly has the right to say that its citizens shall not deliberately build cities in which fever must necessarily be a constant and active resident.

THE MICHAEL NORTON CASE.

THE TESTIMONY OF MR. HENRY C. ALLEN TESTED—CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN DISTRICT ATTORNEY PHELPS AND MR. E. DELAFIELD SMITH.

The following testimony was taken yesterday by the Assembly Committee on Crime, Mr. Henry C. Allen being the witness under examination. Mr. Allen was formerly employed in the office of the District Attorney, and was dismissed on account of incompetency.

Q.—You spoke of the case of Mike Norton, and you failed to give the names of the persons who stated to you that any arrangement had been made with Mike Norton to save him; with whom did you have any conversation on the subject? A.—I think I shall have to decline to answer that question; it was information imparted to me in confidence, and not information to which I was entitled from my position in office.

[The witness was excused from answering.]

Q.—By whom was the bargain made? A.—By people in high authority among the Custom-house politicians.

As a matter of fact no such bargain was made "by people in high authority among the Custom-house politicians," or anybody else. The correspondence which passed between District Attorney Phelps and Mr. E. Delafield Smith, Counsel to the Corporation, relating to Norton, indicates how much of a "bargain" there was to save him. These letters, and one from Mr. John Strahan to the Corporation Counsel, which was sent to Mr. Phelps, are given below, and from them it appears why the trial of the indictments against Norton was delayed:

LAW DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE COUNSEL TO THE CORPORATION,
NEW-YORK, Oct. 6, 1874.

Hon. Benjamin K. Phelps, District Attorney:

DEAR SIR: In the litigation between the County of New-York and the Tenth National Bank, which involves nearly $400,000, the evidence of Mr. Thomas Coman is essential on behalf of the County. It is desirable, therefore, that measures be taken to have Mr. Coman at hand whenever he may be required, and to obviate the necessity of his leaving the country, I would suggest that such arrangements as to bail be assented to by you as Mr. Coman may be able to make. I am, Sir, very respectfully yours,

E. DELAFIELD SMITH,
Counsel to the Corporation.

NOV. 24, 1874.

Hon. E. Delafield Smith, Counsel to the Corporation:

DEAR SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 30th of October, relative to the case of Michael Norton.

I understand from you that Norton has given testimony of value to the people in litigation now pending between the City and County of New-York and the Tenth National Bank; that he is in possession of further testimony of great value to the people, which he is willing and disposed to place at their service; that, however, he or his friends entertain some apprehension as to his position, seeming to fear that, after his testimony has been obtained, he may then be brought to trial for the offenses with which he stands charged by indictment; and you therefore desire from me some expression of my views upon that subject.

I learn, both from your statement and from conversations with the Controller, with Mr. Taintor, of the Controller's office, who was cognizant of the facts, and from Mr. Strahan, whom I understand to be associated with yourself in the litigations with the Tenth National Bank, that it was understood, before Mr. Norton gave his testimony, that as one result of his placing his knowledge of the doings of the former Court-house Commission, of which he was a member, at the service of the people, the prosecutions against him would not be pressed.

I see no objection to saying that, under the circumstances, if Mr. Norton carries out in good faith his part of the understanding, there would be equally good faith observed on the part of the people toward him.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant, BENJAMIN K. PHELPS,
District Attorney.

FEB. 1, 1875.

Hon. E. Delafield Smith, Counsel to the Corporation:

DEAR SIR: On the 6th of October last, you sent me a request that I should make such arrangements as to bail of Thomas Coman as would enable you to have him attend, in case you should require his evidence, in certain litigations pending between the County and the Tenth National Bank.

I now desire to inquire whether the interests of the County in that litigation will be in any wise imperiled if I should bring this person to trial upon the indictments now pending against him.

I desire to dispose of the case, unless there be public interests which render it desirable that it should be still longer delayed.

An early answer will very much oblige,
Yours very respectfully,
BENJ. K. PHELPS, District Attorney.

LAW DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE COUNSEL TO THE CORPORATION,
NEW-YORK, March 11, 1875.

Hon. Benjamin K. Phelps, District Attorney of the City and County of New-York:

DEAR SIR: On the 1st of February ult. I acknowledged your letter of the same date, relating to Thomas Coman, formerly a Commissioner for the erection of the new Court-house.

For your information I now inclose a copy of a letter received by me from Mr. John H. Strahan, in answer to one addressed by me jointly to that gentleman and to ex-Judge John K. Porter.

You will observe by referring to the cases of the Tenth National Bank, reported in Supreme Court Reports, volume 5, pp. 376 and 382, that the court comment upon the importance of the testimony used by myself and counsel in these cases, as procured from ex-Commissioner Michael Norton.

I do not, of course, wish to interfere with the performance of your duty, as it may appear to you upon surveying the whole ground. As an element, however, in determining upon your course, I send you the letter of Mr. Strahan, above mentioned, with the references to the cases given above.

It is undoubtedly important to the City with regard to these cases that the persons mentioned should be accessible, so that their testimony can be obtained in the further progress of the litigation in my hands.

Very respectfully and truly yours,
E. DELAFIELD SMITH,
Counsel to the Corporation.

NO. 247 BROADWAY, NEW-YORK, March 10, 1875.

Hon. E. Delafield Smith, Counsel to the Corporation:

DEAR SIR: Judge Porter's engagements have been such that I have been prevented from seeing and consulting with him in reference to your letter of the 1st ult., inclosing copy of a communication received by you from Mr. Phelps, District Attorney. The General Term have passed upon the questions between the City, as substituted in place of the County, and the Tenth National Bank.

These claims, as you are aware, amount, with interest, to upward of three hundred thousand dollars. The General Term have referred in their decision to Mr. Norton's affidavit, and have given decisive weight to the statements made by him as to the transactions of the Commissioners of the Court-house with the bank. The mandamus proceedings are virtually at an end, and the bank will be compelled to commence an action at law, in which they will have to establish the various matters of fact referred to in the decisions of the General Term. (See People, ex rel. Tenth National Bank of New-York, vs. Green, 5 Supreme Court Reports, page 376, decided in January, 1875; see also People, ex rel. Tenth National Bank, vs. The Board of Apportionment, Id., page 382.)

It will be a decided benefit to the City, if such action is commenced by the bank, to have the benefit of the evidence of all the Commissioners of the Court-house, but it is not for either Judge Porter or myself to say whether this consideration should stay the District Attorney from proceeding upon the indictments which have been found against the Commissioners. We can only state our opinion of the benefit of the evidence to which we have referred, and will regret any action which may deprive the City of securing this evidence to its full extent. Respectfully, (Signed,) JOHN H. STRAHAN.

AMUSEMENTS.

HERR WACHTEL'S REPRESENTATIONS.

The representation of "The Hugenots" at the Academy of Music last evening did not differ materially from Monday's in its most important incidents, but it was marked by an increased smoothness which, of course, conduced largely to its impressiveness as a whole. Herr Wachtel was in excellent voice, and, especially in the robust numbers of his score, his performance could not easily be excelled in effectiveness. We scarcely admire his rendering of his first romanza—"Pura al par"—against the delicate nature of which he offends by a lack of simplicity in style, and, above all, by a tendency to exaggerate its expressiveness; but, in the martial strains of the septet, and in the impassioned utterances of the grand duet, his vigorous delivery and powerful tones endow his performance with extraordinary dramatic force. Herr Wachtel was summoned before the curtain at the close of the fourth act, and, although we could have wished that portions of the duo had been more gently handled, it is but just to say that the power of the portrayal amply justified the homage paid to the artist by an enthusiastic audience. Frau Pappenheim established herself firmly in the good opinion of the public on Monday, and yesterday her impersonation of Valentine showed still more clearly that she is a songstress and an actress of no mean order. The general representation, we need not remark, was satisfactory, and the "benediction of the swords" went capitally. At to-day's matinée, Herr Wachtel will appear in "The Postilion," and Monday he is to come forth in "La Juive."

THE ENGLISH OPERA.

"The Lily of Killarney" was last evening repeated at Booth's Theatre, and the same opera will be sung at to-day's matinée. Miss Kellogg assuming, as usual, the rôle of Eily O'Connor. To-night the brief, but interesting and prosperous, season will be brought to a close by the performance of "The Bohemian Girl."

GILMORE'S CONCERT GARDEN.

We may be permitted to once more remind the reader that the season at Gilmore's Concert Garden is now very near its close, and that to-morrow the last entertainment of the series is to occur. Last night the attendance was very large, and Mme. Carreño-Sauret appearing in addition to what may be called the standing army of the establishment, the programme was endowed with special interest. This evening, besides Messrs. Levy and Arbuckle, the Young Apollo Club, and the band, Mr. S. B. Mills and M. Emile Sauret are to play.

THURSDAY'S PIANO RECITAL.

On Thursday afternoon Mme. Goddard gave a piano recital at Steinway Hall, the programme consisting, in so far as the lady was concerned, of classical music. She played a fantasia by Schubert, (opus 78;) thirty-two variations on an original air (opus 36) by Beethoven, a fantasia by W. Friedeman Bach, and some minor works. Mme. Goddard's readings are exceedingly intelligent and tasteful, and her execution is facile and clean, but her style is hardly impressive enough to warrant the undertaking of a series of recitals which only an artist of genius can successfully give. Mr. Tom Karl's singing infused some interest into Thursday's performance, and M. Emile Sauret's rendering of Ernst's "Otello" and Vieuxtemps' "Rêverie" carried off the honors of the entertainment.

TO-DAY'S MATINEES.

"Led Astray" will be acted this afternoon as well as this evening, at the Union Square Theatre.

There will be an après midi representation of "The Flying Scud" at the Brooklyn Theatre to-day.

At the Park Theatre, an afternoon performance of "The Mighty Dollar" is to take place to-day.

Herr Wachtel is to sing in "The Postilion of Longjumeau" at the Academy of Music this afternoon.

The final matinée performance of "Our Boys" is set down for to-day at the Fifth Avenue Theatre.

The last matinée performance of "Le Canard à Trois Becs" may be attended at the Lyceum Theatre to-day.

Minstrel performances are offered this afternoon by the San Francisco Minstrels, and by the company at Darling's Opera-house.

The second of the White-Cervantes concerts occurs this afternoon at Steinway Hall; on Tuesday evening next the last entertainment of the series may be attended.

The "variety" houses all announce afternoon representations for to-day. The regular evening entertainments may therefore be enjoyed by daylight at the Eagle Theatre, the Olympic, the Theatre Comique, Hitchcock's Third Avenue Theatre, and the Parisian Varieties.

THE DISTRICT BONDS.

THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA ANXIOUS TO HAVE THEIR BONDS CLASSED AS GOVERNMENT BONDS.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Commissioners of the District of Columbia Sinking Fund announce that the funded indebtedness of the late corporations of Washington and Georgetown is $8,600,000. This does not include the indebtedness made by the late Board of Public Works. The amount of 3.65 bonds issued is $10,600,000. It is claimed by the Commissioners that these are in reality United States bonds, and that the faith of the Government is pledged for their redemption. They claim that the bonds are issued by United States officers in payment of liabilities created by United States agents; that if they are not Government bonds they are absolutely worthless as legal obligations, because it is not even pretended that they are issued by any other power having legal existence. Notwithstanding the arguments of the Commissioners all efforts to have these bonds classed with Government securities by the Governing Committee of the New-York Stock Board have thus far failed.

OBITUARY NOTES.

AN IRON SHIP BURNED AT SEA.

NEW-ORLEANS, La., Oct. 22.—Capt. Johnson, of the steam-ship Royal Standard, from Liverpool, reports that on the 30th of September, latitude 36 40° north, longitude 31° west, he discovered the burning wreck of the iron ship Aurora. He boarded the wreck and found it had been abandoned. The lower hold was a mass of fire, everything that could burn having been consumed. Finding it impossible to save the wreck, and dangerous to allow it to float at large, Capt. Johnson scuttled it and proceeded on his way here.

GREAT BRITAIN.

FAILURE OF A LONDON FIRM—LOSS TO BRITISH HOUSES BY THE FAILURE OF AN AMERICAN FIRM—A MANCHESTER FIRM IMPORTING AMERICAN CALICOES—DAMAGE TO SHIPPING, AND LOSS OF LIFE.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Messrs. G. D. Neroutsos & Co., merchants, of London and Manchester, have failed. Their liabilities are stated to be $250,000.

The Manchester Courier of to-day says that by the failure of a large American house, various firms in Bradford will lose from five to six hundred thousand dollars.

The London Times, in its financial column to-day, has the following:

We learn from Draper's Trade Journal that a Manchester firm has begun to import calicoes from the United States. The fact is significant, and as the importers say that the goods are of much better quality and appearance than ours, Manchester, it appears, has found a competitor at last, but that must depend upon the price.

The weather is tempestuous, and much damage to shipping is reported. Information of disasters, involving a loss of upward of twenty lives, has already been received.

The brig John and Isabella has been totally lost near Stonehaven, on the Scottish coast. The crews, numbering twelve, perished. Two large vessels have been lost off Peterhead, in the same vicinity, with all on board. This makes five vessels which have gone down, with their crews, in a distance of forty miles, which have been wrecked within the last two days.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Mr. William Sprague, of Rhode Island, has been sending a letter in favor of greenbacks to a Chicago banker.

Gov. Gaston is to take the stump in Massachusetts and speak every night until the election, beginning at Lowell on Monday.

Eight southern counties in California, which polled but 10,188 votes in 1871, cast 15,421 at the late September election, showing a rapid increase of population.

The Democrats of the Twenty-eighth District on Thursday nominated A. B. Lamberton, of Rochester, for the Senate. Jarvis Lord's name was presented, but was withdrawn before the first ballot was concluded.

A conference committee has endeavored to secure reconciliation between the Democratic factions in Albany County by summarily ruling Mr. Daniel McElwain, one of the candidates for State Senator, out of the contest.

A special dispatch to the Cincinnati Times from Chillicothe, Ohio, announces that Gov. Allen will leave there the first of next week for Pennsylvania for the purpose of taking part in the canvass in that State. He will make his first speech at Pittsburg.

The Democratic Convention for the Eighth Judicial District, at Buffalo on Wednesday, indorsed the nomination of Judge George Barker, Republican, for re-election as Judge of the Supreme Court. The resolution adopted commends him as an able, learned, industrious, and upright Judge.

The Republicans of Livingston County have made good nominations throughout, as follows: For Member of Assembly, Hugh Wilson McNair; District Attorney, George W. Daggett; Sessions Justice, John Wilkinson; Coroner, William W. Potter; School Commissioners, Lewis C. Partridge and Ezra N. Curtice.

The Republicans of Seneca County have made their nominations as follows: For member of Assembly, George H. McClellan; County Treasurer, William M. Hunt; School Commissioner, Clarence Opdyke; Superintendent of the Poor, Walter H. Allen; Coroners, Samuel P. Johnson and Alfred Bolter; Justice of the Sessions, George Story.

Gen. Cary says it was the school question that defeated the Ohio Democrats, and that the future of the party is full of promise and of hope. Of himself he says: "The reasons of my running behind the ticket are obvious enough. The brewers and saloon-keepers distrusted me on account of my temperance principles, and temperance men voted against me because of my opposition to the crusade movement."

Hon. Matt H. Carpenter is suffering from a severe cold and threatened with inflammation of the lungs, and his physician, Dr. J. K. Bartlett, positively forbade him to attempt to fill his appointments to speak this week. He tells him that any attempt at public speaking will probably be followed by serious consequences, and it is therefore likely that he will be unable to take the stump during the campaign.

Ohio papers print the complete vote of that State at the late election, for Hayes and Allen the figures being official, as reported to the Secretary of State, from all but eleven counties, and from these the reports have been sent to the Republican State Committees by the local committees, acting under instructions to copy from the official records of the several counties. The total vote is unprecedented, being 590,077, of which Gen. Hayes has 297,813 and Gov. Allen 292,264, making Gov. Hayes' majority 5,549. About one thousand additional votes were cast for the Prohibition candidate. The largest vote ever cast in Ohio previously was for President in 1872, when the aggregate was 529,436.

THE NEW CANADIAN LOAN.

TORONTO, Ontario, Oct. 22.—A cable dispatch to the Globe says proposals for the new Canadian loan for two and a half millions sterling have just been issued. Three-fifths of this sum are guaranteed by the Imperial Government, and the other two-fifths are issued on the credit of Canada alone. The rate of interest of both is four per cent. The scheme has been favorably received.

TWENTIETH DISTRICT REPUBLICANS.

ENTHUSIASTIC MASS-MEETING LAST NIGHT—SPEECHES BY COL. GILDERSLEEVE, CHARLES P. CROSBY, I. ALBERT ENGLEHART, AND OTHERS.

The Republicans of the Twentieth Assembly District held a large and enthusiastic ratification meeting last night. Brevoort Hall, their head-quarters, was completely filled with an audience of which the majority seemed to be made up of laboring men. The meeting was remarkable for the earnestness of the speakers and of the listeners alike. Mr. W. C. Reddy, President of the Twentieth Assembly District Campaign Club, presided. Col. Henry A. Gildersleeve, Republican nominee for Judge of the Court of General Sessions, said that he did not propose to make an argument. He came to the meeting just to see and be seen. He would thank the citizens of the Twentieth District for helping to nominate him, and leave those that followed to make the arguments.

Mr. Charles P. Crosby followed. He did not come to the meeting, he said, to ask an office. He came to speak in the interests of law, liberty, and good order. He had never made a political speech before, but now there was a great question before this City. It was "Shall the people govern New-York, or shall John Kelly govern the people," and it was a question that interested every man, woman, and child in the City. The people had suffered under Tweed and his satellites, and had risen and broken the chains that bound them. It was now for them to say if they would submit to be bound anew by stronger chains than before. There was only one way for men that valued liberty to act. The people must defend the people's rights, and because the Republican Party was the people's party, and the Democratic Party was John Kelly's party, it was plain that every liberty-loving man was bound to vote a Republican ballot.

Mr. J. Albert Engelhart, the nominee for Assemblyman from the Twentieth District, was the next speaker. He wished to thank the Republicans of the district for nominating him for Assemblyman. In return for the confidence reposed in him he should, in case of election, use his best powers to serve his district. Particularly would he exert himself for the good of the laboring men. It was a shame and an outrage that John Kelly and his fellows should enrich themselves at the expense of the poor laboring man. It was no disgrace to a man to be rich, but it was a disgrace for him to get his wealth by starving those whom fortune had placed within his power. Mr. Henry E. Knox was called upon by the Chairman. There was never, he said, a more momentous question before the people of New-York than the one now agitating them. It was a question of liberty, and even if John Kelly were the most honest man in the State of New-York, he should not be allowed to trample the rights of the people. The speaker was particularly pained to mark the subserviency of some of the Democratic papers of the City. They had editorially commended to the people their duty of nominating John K. Hackett for Recorder, until the fiat came from Kelly. Then they sheepishly yielded, and in doing so disgraced themselves and dishonored the newspaper profession. Speeches were also made by Walter S. Pinckney, nominee for Civil Justice of the Seventh District; Charles Goepp, nominee for Justice of the Marine Court; Henry E. Knox and others.

THE REPUBLICAN MASS-MEETING IN BROOKLYN.

A grand mass-meeting of the Republicans of Brooklyn will be held this evening at the Academy of Music for the purpose of indorsing the nomination of Frederick A. Shroeder for Mayor. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Republicans, but a large number of prominent Democrats have signed the call, and some of them will speak on the occasion. Several gentlemen of prominence in the city who have been identified with reform, without regard to party, have also signed the call. Among the speakers will be D. P. Barnard, Esq., a prominent Democrat, and Gen. Henry Slocum, who is also a Democrat. Speeches will also be made by Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, Ripely Ropes, Esq., ex-Mayor Samuel Booth, and A. A. Low, Esq. The issues involved in the local campaign will be thoroughly discussed, and every tax-payer in Brooklyn who desires an economical administration and the downfall of the Ring should attend.

REGISTER!

To-day is the last day of registration. Republicans who wish to see the City rescued from the domination of Tammany Hall will remember to register to-day and vote on the 2d. of November.

ANTI-TAMMANY RATIFICATION MEETINGS.

An enthusiastic ratification meeting of the Anti-Tammany Democracy of the Fifth Assembly District was held last night at No. 59 [illegible]dam street. Among the speakers were Hon. R. F. Andrews, Charles Gouldy, E. J. Cramer, Capt. J. T. McClelland, and Col. H. A. Gildersleeve. Mr. Andrews spoke of the importance of the election in which they were about to engage, and said it was one in which the poor men had more at stake than the aristocracy of Fifth avenue. There was little difference now between Democrats and Republicans, and he was glad to see a disposition on the part of both organizations to elect the best men. Mr. Gouldy spoke of his determination to resist the one-man tyranny, and he hoped that Nov. 2 would show that the laboring men had learned to take care of themselves. Col. Gildersleeve thanked the audience for the manifestation of good-will, and hoped their enthusiasm was an augury of success at the approaching election.

A large and enthusiastic multitude assembled at Madison and New-Chambers streets last night at the call of the Anti-Tammany Democracy of the Fourth Ward, to ratify the recent nominations. Mr. William Kennedy presided, and speeches were made by Hon. John Morrissey, Capt. J. T. McClelland, Hon. R. F. Andrews, and Cols. Latham and H. A. Gildersleeve.

A PROBABLE POLITICAL MURDER.

A POLITICAL QUARREL ENDS IN THE SHOOTING OF ONE OF THE DISPUTANTS—THE ASSAILANT ESCAPES.

Edwin M. Haggerty, who with Charles Balch was accused, in the Spring of 1872, of stealing the fraudulent vouchers from the Controller's office, was sitting in the bar-room of the Fifth Avenue Hotel shortly before midnight last night, when Thomas Henry Ferris, a well-known Democratic politician, came into the bar-room. Ferris was formerly Alderman and School Trustee of the Tenth Ward, and now resides with his wife and a large family at No. 327 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. Haggerty, of late, has had no fixed residence. The two men got into conversation, and finally began to debate on the contest of Hon. John Morrissey and Hon. John Fox in the Fourth Senatorial District. Ferris said, "I will bet $1,000 that Morrissey is beaten." Haggerty replied, "You're no good; you have no money to bet." Ferris said, "If we were on the street, you dare not say so." Haggerty replied, "Yes I would." "Come on, then," said Ferris, and they went out of the door on Twenty-fourth street. On reaching the sidewalk Haggerty drew a revolver and shot Ferris, who was taken into the hotel and attended by Dr. Ruppauer. Haggerty escaped amid the confusion. Dr. Ruppauer found that Ferris was shot through the scrotum, the ball entering the thigh and lodging under the skin on the opposite side, from which it was subsequently extracted. No definite idea could be given of the character of the wound this morning, but it is thought to be fatal. Capt. Steers and a number of officers are in pursuit of Haggerty.

THE REGISTRY.

SUDDEN INCREASE IN THE NUMBER REGISTERED—TABLE OF COMPARISONS.

Yesterday, the third day of registration in the City, passed off quietly. The result will be seen from the table published below. The sudden increase of registration in the lower part of the City is generally attributed to the appearance of Mr. John Morrissey as a candidate for Senator against John Fox in the Fourth Senatorial District. In Mr. Fox's own district, the registration as compared with the Tammany registration of former years, shows greatly in favor of Mr. Morrissey. The total number of votes registered yesterday was 44,941, making with 68,643 votes already registered, a total registration of 113,584 during the three days of registry this year, which falls below the registration of the first three day of last year 3,896 names. In order to equal the registration of last year, 32,634 names must be registered to-day.

THE NEW BOSS AND HIS THREATS.

From the Buffalo Express.

"Boss" Kelly is trying to bully THE NEW-YORK TIMES into silence as "Boss" Tweed tried to bully it in his palmy days, with threats of libel suits, &c. But THE TIMES does not scare worth a cent. It says,

"To begin with, we may say that if Kelly has any answer to the charges we have brought against him we will publish it. But we will not allow him to threaten and bully us in our own columns. He has his papers, the World and Tribune, at his command—let him go to them. When he wishes to threaten about what he will do to us after election we shall dismiss him to our advertising columns. But answers to the grave charges now recorded against him we will publish. For the rest, the sooner Kelly gets out of his head the notion that we care a straw for all his threats, or for the slanders of his newspaper bravos, the better will it be for him."

And then it draws up a fearful indictment against Kelly, putting its charges in a more pointed and systematic shape than ever before. THE TIMES has had some experience in dealing with these browbeating Tammany Bosses, and may be trusted to hold its own manfully.

From the Newburg Journal.

And so Boss Kelly promises the TIMES the luxury of a libel suit "after election." Perhaps he will change his mind by that time; but if he should not the TIMES will probably be prepared to prove what it has charged against him. That paper is not in the habit of making grave charges against a man's character without first possessing itself of the necessary evidence to prove all it may charge. It is a fact of some significance in this connection that these charges of corruption against John Kelly have been repeatedly made, and he has before made a show of prosecuting his accusers; but up to the present time no conviction has been had, nor has he brought any case to trial.

From the Utica Morning Herald.

John Kelly threatens to extinguish THE NEW-YORK TIMES. It has spoken the truth of him, which is something he don't like. However, he is so kind as to defer his onslaught till after election. THE TIMES is duly thankful for the breathing spell, and tells the Boss it will be found when wanted at the "same old stand," where it was when his striped predecessor thought to stem the tide by "talking back."

From the Bangor (Me.) Whig.

Boss Kelly threatens to annihilate THE NEW-YORK TIMES, "after election;" but that journal takes it very coolly, and says:

"We shall be glad to meet Mr. Kelly in court at any time. We have often been challenged to go there by persons of his description, and we are still to be found at the 'same old stand.' Where those other persons, our challengers, are at this moment, we will not wound the new Boss' feelings by mentioning. Absit omen!"

The newspaper which, single-handed, throttled Tweed and his powerful gang is not likely to be scared by Tilden's new Tammany "Boss."

THE TURF.

THE PIMLICO RACES AT BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 22.—This was the fourth and last day of the Maryland Jockey Club races. The first race was the handicap, one and one-fourth miles, for all horses that have run during the meeting. The starters were Violet, Mattie A., Evelyn Carter, Madge, Jack Trigg, Ozark, Century, Lizzie R., Charlie Cheatham, Jest, Moses Primrose, and Weatherby. Madge won in 2:12¾, with Moses Primrose second, and Jack Trigg third.

The second race was for the Breckinridge Stakes for three-year olds, two miles, $300 subscription, $100 forfeit; the Maryland Jockey Club to add $1,000, of which $500 to the second horse, the third horse to save his stakes; thirty nominations. In consequence of a misunderstanding with regard to the penalty upon the winner of the Dixie, all pools sold before the final race was run were declared off. Tom Ochiltree, Joe Cerne, Viator, Aristides, and Bay Final participated. Aristides won, with Viator second, Tom Ochiltree third, and Joe Cerne and Bay Final bringing up the rear. Time—3:36¼.

The third race was the Compensation Purse, mile heats; purse, $500. The horses that started were Rhadamanthus, Big Sandy, Gen. Harney, and Arcturus. Rhadamanthus won the first heat, General Harney second, Big Sandy third, and Arcturus last. Time—1:46¼. Rhadamanthus also won the second heat and the race by half a length, Arcturus second, Big Sandy third, and General Harney distanced. Time—1:41¾.

The fourth race was the Grand Steeplechase; post stakes of $50 each, half forfeit; about two and a half miles, over the regular steeple course; welter weights; the club to add $600 for the first horse, $100 for the second, and $50 for the third. Diavolo won, coming home three-quarters of a length ahead of Coronet, who led Deadhead six lengths. Time—6:16.

BURGLARS SENTENCED.

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Daniel Leary and James Lumbard, of Utica, indicted with John Sweetman, alias Buckey Malone, and John Welsh, of Utica, and William J. Conroy, alias Christie, of Cold Spring, and others, for the masked burglary at Peter Germond's house, near this city, in August, were to-day found guilty, and sentenced to the Auburn Prison for eighteen years, at hard labor. Welsh and Malone will be tried next. Conroy turned State's evidence against his associates on promise of exemption from punishment.

IT IS BUT WRETCHED POLICY to allow yourself to drift into an incurable disease by neglecting the earliest and most tractable symptoms. ANCIENT PAGAN AND MODERN CHRISTIAN SYMBOLISM. By THOMAS INMAN, M. D. Second edition. Revised and enlarged. With an essay on Baal Worship in the Assyrian Sacred "Grove," and other allied symbols. By JOHN NEWTON, M. R. C. S. E., &c. 1 vol. 8vo, cloth, profusely illustrated, $3.

This book contains, in a nutshell, the essence of Dr. Inman's other publications, and, for the reader of limited means, is just what he requires. The subject of symbolism is as deep as human thought, and as broad in its scope as humanity itself. The erudite thinker finds it not only worthy of his best energies, but capable of taxing them to the utmost. Many pens have been employed upon it, and it has never grown old. Dr. Inman's views are somewhat peculiar; he has concentrated his attention to the ideas which he believes to underlie the symbolism of the most ancient periods, and can be traced through the autonomy of the Christian Church. He finds the relation which exists, and the antiquarian likewise, between Asshur and Jehovah, the Baal of Syria and the God whom Christians worship, and the mysteries of the Sacred Grove, of which the Old Testament says so much, are unfolded and made sensible to the common intellect. Scholars will welcome this volume, and the religious reader will peruse its pages with the profoundest interest. The symbols which characterise worship constitute a study which will never lose its interest so long as learning and art have admirers.

DR. HOLLAND'S LATEST PROSE WORK,
SEVENOAKS:
A STORY OF TO-DAY.
With twelve full-page illustrations, after original designs by Sol. Eytinge. One volume, 12mo., cloth, $1 75.

From the Philadelphia Press.

In SEVENOAKS Dr. Holland is thoroughly original, and not in the least imitative. His plot is well constructed, with a definite purpose from the first, and his idea of exhibiting a bold, bad man, rich through roguery and audacity, "losing his head" through success, ostentatiously making a display on his ill-gotten wealth, obtaining worldly influence through its means, and finally his villainy detected and exposed even to his utter ruin, is well carried out.

In this story the author returns to the style and manner of her earlier books, which were so wonderfully popular. MISS JOHNSON'S CATSKILL FAIRIES.
THE CATSKILL FAIRIES. By VIRGINIA W. JOHNSON, Author of "Joseph the Jew," "A Sack of Gold," "The Calderwood Secret," &c. Illustrated by Alfred Fredericks. Square 8vo, illuminated cloth. $3. A superb gift-book.

In this charming book, which will be the delight of many a boy and girl when the Christmas holidays come round, Miss Johnson has struck an entirely new vein in fairy lore. The fanciful creations which she has conjured up to amuse poor little Job during his imprisonment on the snow-covered Catskills are not transported from the ancient realms of fairy-land. They belong to that romantic region of the New World where Washington Irving laid the scene of Rip Van Winkle's enchanted sleep; but Miss Johnson has borrowed nothing from the old Dutch legends, so familiar to us in the works of that graceful author. Her fairies are the creations of her own imagination, and the stories they tell vie with those of Hans Christian Andersen in delicate fancy, quaint incident, invention, and grace of style. The illustrations by Fredericks, scattered profusely through the volume, are in every way worthy of the stories. The book is beautifully printed, on heavy, tinted paper, in tasteful binding, and is unquestionably one of the most attractive gift-books published this season for the benefit of young America; and, though written with a special view to the entertainment of the juvenile public, it is one of those rare works of the imagination in which young and old will take equal pleasure.

II.

HUGH MELTON.
HUGH MELTON. A novel. By KATHARINE KING, author of "Our Detachment." Illustrated. 8vo, paper. 25 cents.

Every one who has read that spirited and interesting novel, "Our Detachment," will open the pages of this new story by Katharine King with anticipations which will not be disappointed. It is full of movement, incident, and adventure; all the characters are well drawn and strongly contrasted; and the reader's interest is kept alert from the first to the last chapter.

TALMAGE'S EVERY DAY RELIGION.
EVERY-DAY RELIGION. Sermons delivered in Brooklyn Tabernacle, by T. DE WITT TALMAGE, author of "First Series of Sermons," "Second Series of Sermons," "Old Wells Dug Out," "Sports that Kill," &c. Revised from phonographic reports. 12mo, cloth. $2.

Mr. Talmage is a pulpit phenomenon. His conceptions of men and things are so vivid that he cannot be said to possess them: they possess him. He is dramatic, and can not describe without acting. He has a clear, incisive mind, a broad and genial humor, a high and exacting conscientiousness, kindly sympathy, a vivid imagination, and vehement passion. He is in dead earnest, and every blow tells.—Independent, N. Y.

Mr. Talmage has great powers of description, and his pictures are graphic and startling.—Presbyterian, Philadelphia.

JOHN FOX'S RECORD.

HIS CONNECTION WITH THE RING.

FRAUDULENT BILLS PASSED WHILE FOX WAS A SUPERVISOR—THE STATIONERY SWINDLE—A FEW FIGURES FROM MUNICIPAL RECORDS—THE COURT-HOUSE AND ARMORY FRAUDS.

The renomination of John Fox as the Tammany candidate for Senator in the Fourth District has aroused a strong opposition, not only among the respectable citizens, but in the ranks of the regular Democracy, who wear the livery of Kelly and follow Kelly's Governor. Not only is Fox's past record a most vulnerable one, but his personal reputation and surroundings are such as to call forth the hearty contempt of his associates. A freebooter in the field of local politics, the Tammany candidate for Senator has for years past alternately supported and bolted the "machine," just as his personal and financial interests seemed to dictate. His greed for money and power is proverbial, while his smoothness in making promises before election and breaking them afterward, has made his name a by-word in his own district. A Nova Scotian by birth and a subject of Queen Victoria, he has represented himself as a native-born Irishman, for the purpose of trading on the sympathies of a class of the community upon whom he has no just claims for support. Originally a carpenter in the Brooklyn Navy-yard, the more recent years of his life have been spent in the arena of local politics, in which he has amassed a fortune estimated at $500,000. In the old Ring Board of Supervisors his vote was ever found on the side of Tweed and of every swindling claim which the latter saw fit to insert and pass. Keen and cautious, he never failed to exercise the qualities implied by his name, and year by year became a greater power in the ranks of the Ring. For five continuous years he sat in that board, constantly indorsing the increasing "steals" of the Ring, and never failing to lift his voice in favor of every measure by which the tax-payers were to be robbed and the City plundered. Even when the accumulation of "jobs" became so rank and notorious that even his comrades began to murmur, Fox by his single vote settled the proposition for an investigation, and went on in his work of sanctioning new and unheard-of robberies. Among other fraudulent bills which this man assisted in passing were those of John Kelly, mentioned in THE TIMES of Monday last. Kelly is now repaying Fox's assistance on that occasion by supporting him for re-election, and should Kelly's scheme succeed, the latter will find in the Fox of the State Senate, fully as efficient and useful a friend as in the Fox of ante-Reform days.

Following are a few of the fraudulent bills which Fox as a Supervisor voted for between 1865 and 1870. The number and amount of the bills are in every case taken from the records of the board, and can be compared with the originals on file in the County Clerk's office:

THE STATIONERY SWINDLE.

During 1865 there were paid to two firms for stationery, ordered by the Committee on Stationery, of which Fox was a member, the following sums:

To J. O. Seymour & Co.	$22,294
To W. D. Roe & Co.	2,655

The latter firm is the predecessor of T. W. Roe & Co., against whom suit was afterward brought by the City to recover $200,000 for money stolen through the Board of Supervisors. In the succeeding year, 1866, Fox voted in favor of paying, among others, the following amounts to the same firms: [The volume and page of the records of the board are given in each case.]

TO J. O. SEYMOUR & CO.

Vol. 1, p. 238...	$10,547 60	Vol. 2, p. 404...	$6,274 95

Vol. 1, p. 507...	4,182 70	Vol. 2, p. 573...	8,579 30
Vol. 2, p. 100...	4,887 35	Vol. 2, p. 623...	9,480 55
Vol. 2, p. 404...	5,209 65	Vol. 2, p. 641...	4,230 00

This makes, in round numbers, a total of $150,000 paid to these two firms alone for stationery during 1866. During 1868 and 1869 there were paid to those firms about the same amount.

In 1869, when the Ring had grown more rapacious, the following sums, with others of less amount, were paid to the firms of Seymour and Roe, respectively, by the vote of John Fox:

TO SEYMOUR & CO.

Vol. 1, p. 40....	$11,045 65	Vol. 2, p. 32....	$26,800 00
Vol. 1, p. 183...	18,816 55	Vol. 2, p. 209...	20,612 20
Vol. 1, p. 352...	5,648 00

TO ROE & CO.

Vol. 1, p. 40....	$37,149 25	Vol. 2, p. 32....	$69,700 00
Vol. 1, p. 183...	23,368 50	Vol. 2, p. 109...	11,576 00
Vol. 1, p. 352...	21,503 80	Vol. 2, p. 360...	69,987 50

This makes the total of payments to these two firms in 1869, $316,207.

In addition to this enormous and transparent fraud, the further sum of $67,000 was paid in the same year to a single other firm, J. A. Monaghan & Co., for more "stationery." Monaghan and Seymour and Roe's bills invariably received the vote of John Fox.

THE COURT-HOUSE SWINDLES.

The total cost of the unfinished County Court-house was in the neighborhood of $14,000,000, of which over $11,000,000 was stolen through the Board of Supervisors and Board of Audit. That John Fox actively participated in forwarding this robbery is shown by the fact that during 1865-66-67-68 and 1869, when the most audacious of the swindles were perpetrated, Fox was a member of the Court-house Committee, and that every account and voucher connected with the erection of the building passed through his hands and those of Tweed. The following are a few samples of the bills which, both in his capacity as member of the Court-house Committee and of the board, received his vote and sanction. As in the other cases, both volume and page of the records of the board are given for reference:

In February, 1866, the mode by which the "Ring" in the board was plundering the City became so notorious that Mr. Smith Ely, Jr., one of the members, publicly charged that "grossly improper and extravagant contracts had been made by persons directing the erection of the new Court-house, in reference to the purchase of iron, marble, and brick, and in the payment of sums for personal services, which involves the reputation of the Board of Supervisors," and asked for a committee of investigation to expose the frauds. His request was refused by a majority of one vote, and that one vote was John Fox's. Tweed and the other Ring members also voted against it. But the Ring finally concluded that their purposes would be best served by a "sham" inquiry, which was accordingly ordered on Fox's motion. In June following, the committee, through Fox, its Chairman, submitted a report declaring that all the contracts had been honestly and economically made, and approving the course of the Commissioners in charge of the work in making them. The whole history of the Ring frauds might be searched in vain for a parallel to the mingled impudence and rapacity with which Fox and Tweed concocted these raids on the Treasury, and then covered up their tracks through the medium of a "whitewashing" committee.

FOX'S CONNECTION WITH THE ARMORY FRAUDS.

The Committee on Armories and Drill-rooms, as well as the Committees on the Court-house and on Stationery, embraced the names of Tweed and Fox. The robberies perpetrated under pretense of repairing and refurnishing the armories and drill-rooms of the National Guard were second in amount only to the Court-house and stationery swindles. Every one of these armory bills introduced in the board was audited and voted for by John Fox. Among others for which his vote will be found recorded in the proceedings of the board for 1868 and 1869 are the following. It will be observed that every one of them was made out in the name of the notorious Ring tradesmen, several of whom have since confessed, and one of whom has made partial restitution.

These, it must be remembered, are only sample cases. The number of instances in which Fox assisted Tweed and the other Ring Supervisors to pillage the City are too numerous to be reproduced in a newspaper article. In every instance which has yet come to light Fox has been found voting steadily with Tweed for all manner of robberies, swindles, and fraudulent payments of fictious claims. There is hardly a page in the record of that board during the years in question that is not blurred by the mention of these constantly recurring frauds, and in connection with almost every one of them the name of John Fox is to be found recorded in their favor.

THE REVIVALISTS.

PREPARATIONS FOR MESSRS. MOODY AND SANKEY—THE OLD BROOKLYN SKATING RINK CHANGED INTO A RELIGIOUS TEMPLE—THE SERVICES TO-MORROW.

Mr. Sankey arrived in Brooklyn yesterday, and is at present the guest of Alderman John French. Mr. Moody will arrive to-day. The celebrated revivalists will begin to hold religious services to-morrow. The old skating rink, which has been selected as the place of worship, is now in thorough readiness, and all other arrangements will be completed by the committee of the Brooklyn churches in ample season. It was not necessary to change the internal arrangement of the rink. It could hardly be better adapted to the purpose it is to serve than it was when hired by the committee. The auditorium proper is nearly square, being about one hundred and twenty feet on a side, and because there are no architectural ornaments about the roof, but only such beams and bolts as are absolutely necessary to support it, the speaker's voice penetrates with ease to the remotest corners. Another good feature is that at least four-fifths of the congregation will be seated upon the ground floor, and the other fifth in galleries but five feet above the ground. Standing upon the platform, now enlarged to seventy-two feet in length and thirty-eight feet in breadth, and capable of seating 550 persons, the speaker will be completely surrounded by his audience, no part of which, with the exception of perhaps three hundred in the rear gallery, will be elevated above himself. He could not ask more favorable arrangements for the exertion of his magnetic influence. Mr. Moody was in Brooklyn last Thursday making preparatory arrangements, and partly for the purpose of trying his voice in the rink. He expressed himself much pleased with the hall, saying it was just what he could wish. The hall is admirably provided with means of egress. There are two large doors on both Clermont and Vanderbilt avenues, through which the entire audience, if kept in tolerable order, could pass out inside of ten minutes. And in the event of panic, the windows are very convenient of access, with sills but five feet from the ground. The rink will seat, as now arranged, at least 5,000 people, and by placing extra chairs in the aisles and elsewhere, probably 500 more could find room. The body of the house is mostly furnished with chairs nailed together with strips in rows of twelve each. The rows are placed with a space of two feet and five inches between the backs of the chairs, affording generous room for the very lengthiest of listeners. One hundred ushers will be in attendance to seat the audience, and the committee desire it to be understood that the Clermont avenue entrances alone will be open for the people. The Vanderbilt avenue entrances will be reserved for members of the choir and the Pastors, who will occupy seats on the platform. The choir, composed of 250 voices, is selected from the Brooklyn Sunday-schools, and is to be under the director of Mr. Sankey, assisted by Prof. True. The singers will be seated on the right of the platform. A large organ will be used in the choruses, and will be placed on the left side of the platform. Mr. Sankey will have another smaller organ with which to accompany himself in solos. The choir will be furnished copies of Moody and Sankey's singing book, and will have its first rehearsal in the rink this evening. Mr. Sankey will be present to give necessary instructions. There are to be two services to-morrow, the first at 8:30 o'clock A. M. and the second at 4:30 P. M. The hours are fixed so as not to interfere with regular worship at the churches. The doors will be open at 7:45 o'clock A. M. and 3:15 o'clock P. M. There will be no reservation of seats except for the Pastors and the choir.

THE CHURCH CONGRESS.

THE SECOND ANNUAL MEETING TO BE HELD IN PHILADELPHIA IN NOVEMBER—PROGRAMME OF SUBJECTS AND SPEAKERS.

The second Protestant Episcopal Church Congress will meet in Musical Fund Hall, Philadelphia, Nov. 9, and continue in session four days. The first congress was held in this City last October at the opening of the general convention. The congress is a voluntary, unofficial assemblage, meeting simply for the discussion of questions affecting the interests of the church. It is modeled after the English Church Congress, which holds its fifteenth annual session at Stoke-on-Trent, Oct. 6.

Bishop Stevens, of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the rules of the congress, has been invited to preside, and has consented. A long list of Vice Presidents appears in the programme, including a number of the Bishops and prominent clergymen and laymen. Bishop Clark, of Rhode Island, is Chairman of the General Committee and Rev. Dr. George D. Wildes is Secretary.

CITY AND SUBURBAN NEWS.

NEW-YORK.

Register at the earliest possible moment to-day. This is the last day of registration.

The Cunard steam-ship Abyssinia, which left Liverpool on Oct. 9 and Queenstown Oct. 10, reached this port at an early hour yesterday morning with mail news later by two days.

Right Rev. J. Theodore Holly, D. D., Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Hayti, will preach at St. Philip's Church, No. 305 Mulberry street, to-morrow morning.

The upward tendency in stocks yesterday caused the failure of Cumberland G. White, Charles H. Ward, R. J. Fuller, and Howard Irving, four small brokers. The amounts involved are insignificant.

The statement in a morning paper that the firm of Messrs Butterick & Co., fashion publishers and pattern manufacturers of this City, had failed was incorrect. The firm was somewhat embarrassed, but an amicable arrangement has been made with their creditors, and the business will be carried on as usual.

The Board of Apportionment met yesterday afternoon, in the Mayor's office, for the purpose of considering the annual budget for 1876. After a few minutes' consultation the board adjourned till this afternoon. The estimates have been under consideration for several days past, and one of the Commissioners said that the board would be ready to make a report at the meeting to-day.

It was rumored yesterday that arrangements were being made for the settlement of the civil suit against William M. Tweed by the restitution of a large sum of money. This was supposed to be in consequence of the decision of the Referee in the Watson case. There appears, however, to be no foundation for the story. Counsel on either side in the Tweed case said they had heard nothing about any such arrangement.

The funeral of the late Frank M. Milhau, a member of Company K., Seventh Regiment, and also of the Veteran Association of the same regiment, took place this morning at the Catholic Church of St. Vincent de Paul, Twenty-third street, and was attended by a large number of his old comrades in arms. At the close of the services the remains were taken to the Eleventh street cemetery, the pall-bearers being members of Company K.

Business at the Booksellers' Exchange and Clearing-house was quite brisk yesterday. The display of books was good, some twenty thousand volumes being on exhibition. The out-of-town booksellers are arriving in large numbers, and many of them have already taken out letters of credit for the purpose of buying. Among the most noticeable displays were those of Harper & Brothers, Hurd & Houghton, G. P. Putnam's Sons; Scribner, Armstrong & Co.; Kock & Sons, importers of albums, and William H. Harding, importer and publisher of Bibles and albums.

The First Division was represented rather slimly yesterday at Creedmoor in the contest for the marksman's badge. With the exception of four members of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, the First Brigade was not represented. The Seventh Regiment paraded thirty-two men, under command of Capt. C. F. Robbins; Ninth, Capt. Harding commanding, ten men; Fifth, Lieut. Col. Kraeger commanding, forty-two men, and Eighty-fourth, nineteen men, under command of Capt. McKinley—Capt. Ackerman, Inspector of Rifle Practice.

Mrs. Emma Hardinge Britten, of Boston, delivered a lecture last night before the Liberal Club, in Plimpton Hall, on "The Religious and Scientific Aspects of Spiritualism versus Mediomania." The lecture was mainly a reply to a book entitled The Philosophy of Spiritualism, and the Pathology and Treatment of Mediomania, by Dr. Frederic R. Marvin, Professor of Psychological Medicine and Medical Jurisprudence in the New-York Free Hospital for Women. The lecturer declared the book was a slanderous production, and answered its assertions by counter assertions.

The Board of Police held their usual meeting yesterday, and dismissed the following persons from the department: Doorman Wasserman, Seventeenth Precinct, charged with improper conduct; Officer Hugh Watts, Fifteenth Precinct, intoxication, and Officer Sullivan, of the Ninth Precinct, absent without leave. Officer Thomas Ward, of the Thirty-first Precinct, was fined fifteen days' pay for being off post. The case of Edward R. Scott, Inspector of Election in the Ninth District of the Sixteenth Assembly District, was adjourned to Monday, Mr. Voorhis protesting against Scott performing any further duty as Inspector.

BROOKLYN.

The District Attorney's office was yesterday draped in mourning out of respect to the memory of the late chief clerk, Levi B. Faron, Esq.

State Commissioner of Lunacy Ordronaux has notified the Mayor that he is ready to proceed with the inquiry into the condition and management of the Insane Asylum at Flatbush.

This afternoon a member of the Fort Green Club will attempt to walk ten miles in one hundred minutes, while another will walk six miles inside an hour on the path surrounding the pasture at Prospect Park, upon which a half mile has been measured.

LONG ISLAND.

Joseph Levy, aged twenty-four, a night watchman employed by the improvement contractors in Long Island City, while in the act of jumping upon a dirt train yesterday morning missed his footing, and, falling under the wheels, was instantly killed.

The first annual fair of the Hampton Agricultural Society, held at Bridgehampton, on the grounds of the President, Mr. Orlando Hand, on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, was measurably successful, considering that it was the initial effort of a newly-formed society. The display of agricultural and domestic products was very creditable and the attendance was quite large.

Delaney, the convicted and sentenced murderer of Capt. Lawrence, yesterday expressed a desire to see the son of the murdered man, and upon being confronted with him desired to shake hands with him, asking if the son had anything against him, and saying that he hoped for the son's forgiveness, although he (Delaney) did not kill his father. It is the general belief that the former mate of the schooner, Joseph E. Potts, who left the vessel on the day before she sailed from Port Johnson, was also murdered by Delaney, as he has not since been heard from, although diligent inquiry has been made. Delaney has entirely given up hope.

On Wednesday a party of gunners, while hunting in a piece of woods near the residence of Mr. Daniel Lawrence, at Black Stump, town of Flushing, came upon a peculiarly-shaped pile of stones, which upon examination was found to form the mouth and cover of a cave. Their surprise at this discovery was greatly increased by hearing loud talking and swearing directly beneath them. The entrance to the cave was through a small hole, into the top of which was thrust a bag of leaves. The discoverers at once gave notice to the authorities, and officers were dispatched to search the place, but found nothing but a bed and some small pieces of candles, the human occupants having fled. A similar cave has been found in another part of the same woods and will be explored to-day. It is believed to be a hiding-place of thieves.

NEW-JERSEY.

The Orion Boat Club are to have a regatta this afternoon on the Hackensack River, opposite their club-house. There will be one pair-oared race, one four-oared, one single-scull, and a tub race, open to all comers.

The Commission of the Presbyterian Synod, to which was referred judicial case No. 2, (the Glendenning case,) have reported, recommended that the complaint be dismissed, and the decision of the Presbytery of Jersey City be approved. The report will probably be adopted by the Synod.

Nathaniel Lundy, the West Hoboken policeman, who, about a month ago, committed an atrocious assault and battery upon Philip Kock, was convicted in the Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday. Lundy shot a dog belonging to Kock, and when the latter remonstrated clubbed him so severely that for a week or two his life was despaired of. The prisoner was bailed to appear for sentence.

A boy named James Lester, aged six years, mysteriously disappeared from his home in Newark Wednesday morning. The Police were notified, but no trace of him was discovered until yesterday, when he was found in the possession of a woman known as "Montclair Maggie," who was arrested in Orange for drunkenness. The child was restored to his parents and the woman held on a charge of abduction.

A DETERMINED SUICIDE.

About midnight on Thursday a well-dressed man went on board the Hoboken ferry-boat Rumsey when she was lying at her slip in New-York, and passed through to the bow. There he spoke to a passenger who was standing near the guard-rail smoking, and said, "I guess the river is pretty cold to-night." "I guess so, too," the passenger replied, and the man replied, "Well, I'll know all about it in a minute or two." The next moment he had mounted the guard-rail and jumped into the water. The passenger caught hold of his coat-tail, but the strain was too great for him, and he was obliged to let go. The man did not appear on the surface again, and all efforts to recover his body proved unavailing. It is supposed that he loaded himself with weights so that he would sink immediately. His hat did not appear, and must have been fastened to his head, so as to prevent any possible chance of identification.

TRAINS ON THE ERIE ROAD.

A change of programme will be made next month in the running of the passenger trains on the Delaware and Susquehanna divisions of the Erie Railroad. It is proposed by the managers of the road to alter the present system of running passenger trains (combining mail and express matter) by divisions only. It has therefore been arranged that from the 1st of November trains Nos. 1, 4, 5, and 8 will commence running between Port Jervis and Owego with the same conductor and train men, and trains Nos. 3 and 12, between Port Jervis and Elmira, in the same manner, returning in the same order, all of which will be designated through trains. Trains Nos. 6 and 9 will continue to be run as before, by divisions.

FREDERIC HUDSON.

From the New-York Herald, Oct. 22.

By an accident at the railroad crossing at Concord, Mass., Frederic Hudson received injuries on Wednesday of which he died within a few hours, and thus, by one of those horrible misadventures that seem as barbarous as they have become familiar, was stricken down a man inestimably dear, not merely within the circle of a devoted family, but in the ampler limits of a daily fellowship of many years, in which all who ever met him became his friends, attracted by his sincere and simple character and his warm heart. It never seemed strange that all who came near Fred Hudson loved him; and it would have seemed scarcely comprehensible that there could be any other feeling toward him, for he possessed in the highest possible degree that most excellent of human qualities, the magnetism of personality. He affected favorably all who came near him, persons of the most diverse character and conditions, and under the most widely varied impulses. And this was not a merely negative circumstance. It was not through the absence from the man himself of positive points and the most strongly marked peculiarities. It was not that a relationship was established between him and other men because his nature gave way and adapted itself to theirs, for he was full of granite, too. Not "the tenfold adamant" was firmer than he was at the line of duty or self-assertion, and with him self-assertion was a declaration of the instincts and impulses of an upright nature. His success at this point of life was a result of the happy balance of his temper, combined of an open, amiable, accessible nature and the finest tact ever possessed by a human creature. Perhaps its real source was deeper than this. He was the incarnation of justice. In the functions he discharged in this office in the many years of his connection, that strict justice sometimes smiled and sometimes frowned, and in the one case judgment was sweetened, and in the other made endurable by the courtesy and kindliness of its administration. No man ever heard from him a rebuke at which his own conscience had not previously hinted, and no success gained under his cognizance ever went without the gentle glory of his good word. It was this that kept the discipline firm and clear—the common opinion that it was based in that higher kind of morality that may be called the common law of the soul. In the spirit of that discipline this man was the starting point of an esprit de corps which led many Herald men to perish, but never permitted them to fail. Frederic Hudson's success as a journalist was the legitimate result of his great intellectual capacity; but it was assisted by the gentle side of his nature. It was combined of talent to deal with men and with facts. Few men could get so much out of men in any place, for he caught hold of the loyalty of their natures; but few ever perceived so happily what was any particular man's place. But he possessed a mind that would have enabled him to triumph over the difficulties of any of the usual spheres of human activity. He would have become distinguished in any line of intellectual endeavor. It is perhaps not his least honor—it is one that in this period should be regarded with exceptionable pride by all his friends—that he was incorruptibly faithful.

TROTTING AT FLEETWOOD PARK.

The match for $2,000 between the noted trotters Sensation and Thomas L. Young came off yesterday at Fleetwood Park, and drew out a large attendance, but, like the match at Prospect Park last Wednesday, it ended in disappointment. Sensation was the favorite at $100 to $80 before the start, but Young trotted very fast the first heat, winning it in 2:19½, after a close and exciting struggle. The second heat was also stubbornly contested from beginning to end, the pair passing under the string simultaneously, making a dead heat in 2:22¼. Charley Green, who drove Young, thought he had won the heat, and was dissatisfied with the decision of the judges and refused to start his horse for the next heat when called upon. The judges waited fifteen minutes beyond the regular time, and as Young did not appear the word was given and Sensation jogged round the track alone, winning the race in 2:42.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

A fire at Freeport, Ill., late Thursday night, destroyed the Freeport watch factory. The establishment had been in operation six months, and several hundred watches were in process of completion. The loss on the building and stock is $150,000. The fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin.

Two barns, three out-buildings, and a cider-mill belonging to Abram Furman, of White Point, Long Island, were destroyed by fire last night, loss $10,000. The same night the "Meadow House," at Maspeth, was destroyed. Loss $7,000; no insurance.

A fire occurred in the malt-room on the third floor of the building No. 231 East Forty-seventh street, owned by F. A. Newman, and occupied by him as a lager-beer brewery. Damage to building and contents $2,000; insured.

Fire was discovered at 6 o'clock last evening in the North Church, at Newburyport, Mass., but it was extinguished with a loss of between $2,000 and $3,000. The cause is not known.

The house and barn of Woodbury Small at Saco, Me., were destroyed by fire Thursday night. The loss is $2,500; insured for $1,000.

CURE OF CATARRH.

Dr. LIGHTHILL takes pleasure and pride in submitting to sufferers from Catarrh the following testimonial from a gentleman widely known in business and social circles:

TESTIMONIAL FROM R. B. LIVERMORE, ESQ.

My attention having been attracted to a testimonial from Rev. Dr. Deems, the distinguished Pastor of the Church of the Strangers, certifying to the remarkable cure of Catarrh effected in the case of a member of his family by Dr. Lighthill, I concluded to try the Doctor's skill in a case of Catarrh of a very aggravated form, from which I had suffered for many years past, and which of late had seriously impaired my hearing. I am happy to state that Dr. Lighthill effected a radical and complete cure, removing, after a few months' treatment, every vestige of the Catarrh, and restoring my hearing to all its former acuteness and perfection. Dr. Lighthill's remarkable success in my case fully justifies the high praise bestowed upon him and his practice by Rev. Dr. Deems, and I cordially unite with him and others in recommending Dr. Lighthill to the confidence of the public.
R. B. LIVERMORE, No. 133 West 47th st.

Dr. Lighthill receives patients from 8 to 3 at his office, NO. 212 FIFTH AV., NEW-YORK.
